Shooting Likely Targeted, No Suspect Identified

Staff Reports

A man remains in critical condition after being shot multiple times aboard his sailboat in the early morning hours Saturday. The shooter remains at large and the case shrouded in mystery.

Pamlico County Sheriff Chris Davis doesn't believe the shooting of Robert Miller, 63, was random.

"All signs point to a targeted shooting at this time," Davis said. "And while the shooter remains at large, there doesn't seem to be a threat to the public."

The Pamlico County Sheriff's Office and the State Bureau of Investigation are working together to identify a suspect in the shooting that occurred over the weekend at Clancy's Marina around 2:40 a.m. Saturday morning.

When deputies arrived they found Miller of Burlington on the deck of his sailboat suffering from multiple gunshot wounds to the head and body. Miller was taken to Vidant Medical Center where he remains in critical condition, but staple condition, following several surgeries. According to Davis, Miller is expected to regain consciousness in the days ahead and is hopeful that he will provide authorities further details about incident.

Despite his condition, Miller was able to provide authorities with a brief description of the suspect before being taken to the hospital.

"While we're hoping for more details from Mr. Miller, we're not waiting," Davis said. "We've interviewed over 50 individuals and are following numerous leads. There's a lot of uncertainty surrounding this case."

Details such as why the boat was partially untied and power unplugged are being taken into consideration, but Davis resists drawing any conclusions at this point in the investigation.

"Each and every detail we come across is being taken into consideration, but it's simply too early to know what's important and what's not."

Miller had been residing on his sailboat, a

ACS Students Celebrate Peace with Pinwheels

In today's world, peace needs to become more than just a word. Arapahoe Charter School students celebrated International Day of Peace on Monday. Students created and "planted" pinwheels with messages of peace on the site of the new school along NC Hwy 306.

Pinwheels for Peace is an art installation project started in 2005 by two art teachers, Ann Ayers and Ellen McMillan, of Coconut Creek, Florida, as a way for students to express their feelings about what's going on in the world and in their lives. Locally, ACS' STEAM teacher, Dr. Tammy Scot, coordinated the Pinwheels for Peace project at Arapahoe Charter School.

This project is non-political - peace doesn't necessarily have to be associated with the conflict of war, it can be related to violence/intolerance in our daily lives, to peace of mind. To each of us, peace can take on a different meaning, but, in the end, it all comes down to a simple definition: "a state of calm and serenity, with no anxiety, the absence of violence, freedom from conflict or disagreement among people or groups of people."

Keep a lookout for the pinwheels - the spinning of the pinwheels in the wind will spread thoughts and feelings about peace throughout the country and the world.

Defining an Abandoned Vessel Currently Under Scrutiny

Staff Reports

Abandoned and unkempt boats can be found along the waterways and marshes in Eastern North Carolina coast, some creating hazards to navigation and other safety or environmental problems.

In addition to the expense, the inconsistencies of regulations that apply to derelict and abandoned vessels and variations in defining what qualifies as an abandoned vessel in may have an impact on the delay in removal of these abandoned crafts.

The N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission's definition is a vessel that has been relinquished, left or given up by the lawful owner without the intention to later resume any right or interest in the vessel. The term does not include a vessel that is left by an owner or agent of the owner with any person or business for the purpose of storage, maintenance or repair and that is not subsequently reclaimed. The Coast Guard's definition of abandoned vessel is any craft designed for navigation that has been moored, stranded, wrecked, sunk or left unattended for longer than 45 days. A vessel is not abandoned if it is on private property with permission of the owner, according to the Coast Guard.

A provision to "Clarify Coastal County Authority Over Abandoned Vessels" would repeal and rewrite current statutes to allow coastal counties to prohibit the abandonment of vessels in navigable waters within their jurisdiction. An abandoned vessel would be defined as one that is moored, anchored or otherwise located for more than thirty consecutive days in any 180-day period without permission of the dock owner, or a vessel that is in danger of sinking, has sunk, is resting on the bottom or is located such that it is a hazard to navigation or an immediate danger to other vessels. The action wouldn't apply to shipwrecks and underwater archeological remains that have been in place for more than ten years. The language was inserted by Sen. Bill Cook, R-Beaufort, following a discussion between one of his aides and officials with the East Carolina Council of Governments in New Bern. The council recently conducted a survey to assess the extent of the problem. Council Director Judy Hills told Coastal Review Online there was "no harm" in the budget provision, but more needs to be done on the matter. "In October we are convening a work group to look more closely at the issue," Hills

WEEKLY HOROSCOPE

Aries (March 21-April 19)
The sign of Libra is 180 degrees opposite the sign of Aries. Therefore, this means that while the Sun is in Libra, it is directly opposite your sign, which is as far away from you as the Sun can possibly get all year. Furthermore, since the Sun is your source of energy, this is an indication that you will need more sleep, and you will be tired during the next four weeks. Possibly, some of this fatigue is generated by having to deal with ex-partners and old friends back on your doorstep. This sort of thing can be tiring and worrisome, especially if a conflict still exists. Nevertheless, lovely, playful opportunities also exist. And of course, all those wonderful opportunities to improve your health and improve your job are still on the table waiting for you to make the most of them.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
This week the Sun enters your sign where it will stay for the next four weeks. Happy birthday! This alignment of the Sun will allow you to recharge your batteries for the rest of the year! This is a wonderful opportunity for you. In addition, it will also attract favorable people and circumstances to you. Therefore, by all means, make the most of this time and use it to your advantage. Many of you will run into ex-spouses, ex-partners and old friends from your past. You might encounter them in person or hear from them by email or phone. Meanwhile, fair Venus guarantees warm relations with others, especially friends and people in groups. In particular, you will be attracted to creative, artistic types. All kinds of group activities will be fun, even if they're in a professional setting. People are so warm and cozy, a friend could become a lover. Woo hoo.

Taurus (April 20-May 20)
Recently, you had opportunities to play and party. In the coming month, your focus will now be on duties and responsibilities. Ah yes, time to pay the Piper! You should aim to make every action count as much as possible. Get the most bang for your buck. You might have to work according to somebody else's needs and wishes - but you can still strive to be as physically efficient, effective and productive as possible, which is what you really want to do. You will also find that your focus on your health is stronger, and you will want to improve your health in any way that you can. This is good advice because frankly, your whole year ahead is a party year! And when you party, you eat well and drink well! (You know who you are.) A minute on the lips is a lifetime on the hips. Sigh.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
Because your birthday is just one month away, this means you are coming to the end of your personal year. As such, one of the wisest uses for the coming month ahead is for you to give some serious thought to that you want your new year to be all about. How do you want it to be different from last year? What changes do you want to introduce? One thing is certain: Jupiter will guarantee that you will be popular during the next year, and that you will also be more involved with classes, groups and associations. Right now you look good to others, which is why authority figures approve of you and admire you. In fact, a romance with a boss might begin. Meanwhile, use this Mercury retrograde energy to do research and dig for answers from the past.

Gemini (May 21-June 20)
You have a lovely, playful month ahead! For the next four weeks, don't feel selfish if you just want to do what YOU want to do because it's your turn to get out and have a good time. It really is. You might be involved with children more than usual as well as sports events. All your relationships with others will be fun and lighthearted. Enjoy the arts, musical performances and sports events. Have fun dining out. Stay in hotels. This is the time to just be yourself. Your home life is a bit hectic and chaotic right now, but you won't mind. Old flames are still coming out of the woodwork - watch your step. Meanwhile, your words are melodious, which makes this a strong time for writing, sales and sweet talk. (You devil.)

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
As the Sun changes signs this week, it ushers in a month ahead of increased popularity and the enjoyment of friends and groups. In particular, friends from the past will be coming out of the woodwork - keen to see once again. "We love you!" With this strong focus of socializing with others, you can benefit by how do you hope and dreams for the future with someone because their feedback will help you. Meanwhile, you're very ambitious right now. And well you should be because Jupiter is at the top of your chart where it will stay for the next year enhancing your public and professional reputation. It will allow you to advance in your own career or have the opportunity to change your field of work. Continue to travel for pleasure while you can. Bon voyage!

Cancer (June 21-July 22)
This shift of the Sun this week changes your focus for the next month to home, family and your private life. In part, this makes you want to hide and cocoon at home. You will welcome being among familiar surroundings that give you a warm feeling in your tummy. You might want to go off by yourself and spend time in contemplation, especially with something delicious to eat. Some will use this coming month to focus on past family events. You might want to discuss memories of your youth with a counselor. These feelings might also be triggered because relatives, whom you haven't seen for a while, are back in the picture. George Burns was right: "Happiness is having a large, caring, loving, close-knit family in another city."

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
As the Sun shifts signs this week, it will now start to move across the top of your chart; and this is the only time all year this ever happens. It symbolizes a spotlight on you. Furthermore, this light is flattering, which is why everyone, especially bosses and VIPs, will see you in such a positive way. They will admire you! In turn, this will probably attract support and help from others because they see you on increased responsibilities. If this happens, say yes because you will not have to do anything extra to dazzle them. Good lighting is everything! Travel opportunities continue to look fabulous, as they will all year. Romance is sweet and affectionate, while gifts and goodies come your way. Not too shabby!

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22)
Your daily tempo will accelerate in the next four weeks with short trips, appointments, classes, increased reading and writing, visits with siblings and relatives plus dealing with friends and acquaintances from your past. Yes, your schedule is jam-packed! Furthermore, you will work hard to earn your money because you are also spending your money! And indeed, the next few weeks are an excellent time for all Leos to buy wardrobe goodies. Yay! (Yes, this includes shoes and boots.) Continue to allow extra time for delays and snafus in communications, daily transportation, trains, buses and automobile breakdowns - just crazy stuff that forces you to deal with it. These things aren't major but you can't ignore them. (Yesterday I had to tow someone's car out of my backyard. Don't ask.)

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
In the month ahead, you want to travel because you want to spread your wings and try your independence. You want adventure and the excitement of learning something new and in a word - you want to grab more of life! Meanwhile, contacts from your past, especially related to religion, politics, foreign countries or higher education might be back in your life again. With fair Venus opposite your sign, you find it easy to be charming to others - no worries. In fact, your sex drive is strong and you are ready to take on increased responsibilities. Continue to look for opportunities to borrow money or get a mortgage or benefit from the wealth and resources of others because they exist, now and for the whole year ahead! Lucky you.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
This is a feisty time for you because fiery Mars is in your sign. Be careful because as the Full Moon in Aries approaches, at the end of the week, you might come on too strong for some people! And if you do - they'll bite back! Meanwhile, the coming month is all about money, earnings, cash flow and expenditures. You might be focused on getting a different job or changing your job in some way. Money coming to you will also be delayed at this point. Cheques in the mail will be late, that sort of thing. If you're looking for new work, go back to places you worked before because Mercury retrograde will help you resurrect the past. In other words, your best opportunities are places you worked before or with previous contacts. "I knew a guy -"

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20)
For whatever reason (according to the personal details of your life) your focus now turns to taxes, debt, mortgages, inheritances and insurance issues. You might also be focused, more than usual, on the wealth of your partner. It appears some old business requires your attention. Something needs to be wrapped up and finally finished. With fiery Mars opposite your sign now, you might have conflicts with someone. Fortunately, this is temporary because in the bigger picture, Jupiter will be there for the entire year enhancing your closest friendships and partnerships, and attracting warm partners to you. In fact, the year ahead is a wonderful time to marry. And oh my - it looks like a work-related romance will begin for some of you.

Pamlico Animal Welfare Society (PAWS)
"NEW LEASH ON LIFE" Program - Everyone deserves a second chance"
PAWS rescues adoptable shelter dogs and pairs them with inmate trainers at the Pamlico Correctional Institution. The inmates learn patience, responsibility and teamwork along with new, marketable skills. The dogs are vetted, vaccinated and altered, house, crate and leash trained, and receive basic and advanced obedience, agility and rally training. These well-behaved companions graduate every eight weeks, ready to join new, forever families - maybe yours?

Well, hi there, I'm Sadie and I'd love to share my world with you. I heard someone say that my happiness is infectious, whatever that means. It must be because I'm a perfect mix of easy going hound, happy lab, or maybe a Carolina Dog. Guess I got the best of all worlds and I'm definitely one of a kind. I'm around 35 lbs, an ideal size, and very photogenic with a smile that will help to bring happiness to our lives together. I'm a medium to high energy girl that probably should be around children at least 9 years old. I've never meet another dog that I didn't get along with and as for cats, who cares? Car rides are just another excellent adventure. And I've never met a dog that I didn't think would be my best friend. Everyone loves me and I love everyone. I'm still young at around a year old. If you're looking for a ball of fun that is as sweet as can be, I'm the one for you. The best part is we can have a long life together.
My name is Gibbs and I'm a one of kind mixed breed consisting of maybe Lab and hound. What everyone knows for sure is that I'm a peaceful low energy boy that loves children, to play with other dogs, and am good on a leash. I'm a lovebug that's about 2 years old and when I graduate from Pamlico's New Leash on Life program I'll be one great companion for a loving family, maybe yours? My foster mom has discovered that I'm obsessed with cats and shouldn't be around them in my new family. I'll be ready to go home with my new family in Nov.
If you're interested in adopting a NLOL dog contact Jackie Schmidt at 649-5504 or Penny Monell at 249-1453. You can also email PAWS at mail@pamlicopaws.net and download an adoption application at pamlicopaws.net on the individual dog's page.

Here's what one of Allen's customers had to say...

Allen was very good at giving me info on the local market & helped me set a realistic price. In negotiations I was so wanting to get rid of the property that I was going to accept the buyer's initial offer but Allen changed my mind and we countered several times and I got more than I would have. Allen seems like a nice guy and was prompt in our communications. I highly recommend Allen for his knowledge, expertise, responsiveness and negotiation skills.

Life is all about choices. There are simple choices—what to wear, where to eat lunch. And there are more difficult ones—is this the right job for me? Should we buy the house? Should I get married? If you were in a car accident today and had to be placed on life support, have you thought about what care you would need? Have you told anyone what matters to you if you were in this situation? If you had a stroke and were left paralyzed and unable to speak, do you have someone designated to speak for you? Does this person know what matters to you and what decisions you might make for yourself if you could?

Mary Lou Infinito will offer a one-day, two session program on making difficult life decisions. The morning session will focus on the medical, spiritual and ethical issues surrounding end-of-life health care decision making. In the afternoon session, program facilitators will work with individuals to answer questions, and a notary will be available to complete necessary documentation.

You have the power to make your own decisions about your future health care, including end of life care, now. THE CHOICE IS YOURS. Let's get started together. Participation can be for one or both sessions

• Session # 1 – 10:00 – 11:30am
EDUCATIONAL PRESENTATION & DISCUSSION – Advance Care Planning

What does it mean, and how do you get started? The purpose of this session is to facilitate discussion, answer questions and help individuals be comfortable with their decisions. This session will be about understanding Advance Directives including: the Health Care Power of Attorney and Living Will, as well as doctor orders including Do Not Resuscitate (DNR) and Medical Orders for Scope of Treatment (MOST) documents.

• Session #2 – 12:00 noon – 1:30pm
DOCUMENT COMPLETION – Advance Care Planning “CLINIC”

It's Chili Cookoff Time Again...

Do you have a chili recipe that friends and family swear is the best in the universe? Do you need to defend your title as one of the Best Chili Cooks in Oriental? Do you want to support the Old Theater in its fundraising efforts by serving your prized chili recipe to visitors and town folks? Good news! The 8th Annual Chili Cookoff is just around the corner!

If you can cook, we challenge you to a friendly competition with other individuals and businesses at the 8th Annual Chili Cookoff fundraiser for the Old Theater. This event will take place on Saturday, October 24 from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m., at the Oriental Marina & Inn Courtyard.

Can't cook? You can help behind the scenes by donating funds that will help pay for things like event advertising, a tent, table covers, cups, spoons, etc. Individuals and businesses that support this event will get their “name on stage” as well as recognition on video commercials that precede Friday Flicks each month between November 2015—October 2016.

Funds raised by this “almost” annual event will go to support the Old Theater—the building, its contents and equipment. Throughout the year, the Old Theater provides a venue for plays, concerts, children's programs and workshops, films and a variety of civic, business, club and charity events.

All of these activities require a stage, lights, sounds and the support of many people who volunteer on stage and behind the scenes ... people like you who appreciate how special it is for a town of 800 to have a functioning theater that brings such a variety of entertainment to its community.

We need your help to make the 8th Annual Chili Cook-off a fun and successful community rallying event in support of the Old Theater. Sign up NOW by contacting Nelda Coats (252-639-1616 / neldacoats@gmail.com) or Elyn Speciale (252-571-1324 / gustogertie@gmail.com).

Help Control County's Cat Population

Some days it seems to be raining cats and dogs around Pamlico County. Well, not so much dogs, but in recent years there has been a huge explosion of our cat population.

Colonies of feral cats are springing up all over, and despite efforts of local groups and Craven/Pamlico Animal Control, not much progress has been made to reduce their numbers.

Trinity Smith, Director of Craven/Pamlico Animal Shelter, reports that so far this year 1274 cats turned in to the shelter have been euthanized.

Often, abandoned cats become feral, leading short lives, facing starvation and disease and often fall prey to wild animals. Unwanted kittens have been seen thrown from cars, and some have even been plucked out of the river!

To help curb this overpopulation of unwanted kittens and puppies, all pet owners are strongly encouraged to have their furry friends altered. Low income Pamlico County pet-owners in need of financial assistance may apply to PAWS for vouchers to be used at local vets (252-745-PAWS), or take their pets to “Spay Today” in Greensboro (252)321-8839.

Those wishing to support this effort may send donations to PAWS at P.O. Box 888, Oriental, NC 28571. (Penny Monell PAWS)

HEARING LOSS
Now linked to Dementia & Alzheimer's Disease

Don't ignore the WARNING signs:

- Increasingly frustrated and socially isolated
- Unable to hear well in social settings
- Ask others to repeat themselves
- You hear, but don't understand
- Others repeatedly ask you to turn down the television?

“We followed 639 people, ages 36 to 90 for nearly 12 years, and found that for each 10-decibel loss in hearing, the risk of dementia rose about 20 percent among the participants. Compared with those who could hear normally when first examined, the risk of dementia doubled among those with mild hearing loss, tripled among those with moderate hearing loss and increased fivefold among those with severe hearing loss.”

– Dr. Frank R. Lin, Johns Hopkins Medicine

Craven CC Receives Bate $95K Grant

The Harold H. Bate Foundation support of Craven Community College (CCC) continues with a grant award of $95,200 for scholarships. Check presented to CCC administrators by Bate Foundation board members (L-R) Si Seymour; Joyce Hendricks, Bate Foundation director; Dr. Ray Staats, CCC president; Don Brinkley, Bate Foundation board chair; Gary Baldree; Benny Mullinix; Bob Mattocks; and Judy Eurich, CCC executive director. Portrait of the late Harold H. Bate in background.

NEW BERN – Craven Community College (CCC) has received a $95,200 grant from The Harold H. Bate Foundation to be awarded as scholarships to students in the 2015-16 academic year. This grant represents the largest scholarship award the college receives annually.

"The Harold H. Bate Foundation is among Craven Community College's strongest and most generous supporters. They're a phenomenal long-term partner to provide higher education opportunities to our students," said Dr. Ray Staats, CCC president. "The Bate Scholarships provide critical financial support to so many of our students who otherwise would not have the opportunity to attend Craven. The Foundation truly opens doors for our students to achieve their lifelong learning aspirations," he added.

"Craven Community College is a vital part of our community and plays such an important role in the lives of so many in our area," said Don Brinkley, The Harold H. Bate Foundation board president. "Mr. Bate was a strong supporter of Craven Community College and would be pleased with our partnership," he added.

Since 1999, The Harold H. Bate Foundation has provided a total of $2.36 million in grants to CCC. In the 2014-15 year, 173 students received a Bate Scholarship. Students who received the scholarships were awarded $600 per semester, or a maximum of $1,200 per year. Students who received scholarships were enrolled in at least six credit hours per semester and had a minimum of a 2.0 grade point average. Students must fill out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and Bate Foundation application.

Founded in 1965, Craven Community College is part of the North Carolina Community College System. With campuses in New Bern and Havelock-Cherry Point, Craven serves about 3,200 curriculum students and more than 10,000 continuing education students each year. The college offers a wide range of associate degree and certificate programs, as well as college transfer courses, career and occupational offerings, partnerships with four-year universities, specialized workforce training options, developmental studies and basic skills classes. Craven Early College High School programs are available on both campuses. Craven is also home to Public Radio East, one of the few community colleges nationally with this distinction. For more information about the college, visit www.cravenc.edu.

Conservation Trust Earns National Accreditation

The Conservation Trust for North Carolina (CTNC) has achieved renewed land trust accreditation from the Land Trust Accreditation Commission, an independent program of the Land Trust Alliance.

CTNC was awarded renewed accreditation this August and is one of 317 land trusts from across the country that are now accredited. Accredited land trusts are authorized to display a seal indicating to the public that they meet national standards for excellence, uphold the public trust and ensure that conservation efforts are permanent. The seal is a mark of distinction in land conservation.

"The Conservation Trust for North Carolina is one of the first land trusts to achieve renewed accreditation, a significant achievement and major milestone for the accreditation program. CTNC is an important member of the accredited land trust community that protects more than three quarters of the 20,645,165 acres currently owned or protected by a conservation easement held by a land trust," said Commission Executive Director Tammara Van Ryn.

"Accreditation renewal, which must be completed every five years, provides the public with an assurance that accredited land trusts continue to meet exceedingly high standards for quality."

Each land trust that achieved renewed accreditation submitted extensive documentation and underwent a rigorous review. "Through accreditation renewal, land trusts are part of an important evaluation and improvement process that verifies their operations continue to be effective, strategic and in accordance with strict requirements," said Van Ryn.

"We are proud to receive national re-accreditation and we look forward to continuing our work with willing landowners and local land trusts to save more of the places people love across North Carolina," said Reid Wilson, CTNC Executive Director.

For more information about CTNC, visit www.ctnc.org.

Arapahoe, Aurora Scouts Earn Silver Awards

Cheyenne Lupton of Arapahoe and Rebecca Bennett of Aurora have been awarded the Girl Scout Silver Award by Girl Scouts – North Carolina Coastal Pines. The Girl Scout Silver Award is the second highest achievement in Girl Scouting. The award symbolizes a Girl Scout Cadette's accomplishments in Girl Scouting and her community as she discovers her strengths and takes action to make the world a better place.

Cheyenne Lupton

For her Girl Scout Silver Award project, Lupton chose to research the rich history of Pamlico County and create a brochure and map of historic and fun places to visit throughout the county. She partnered with the Pamlico County Heritage Center Board to assist her with distribution of her brochure. After presenting her idea to the board and securing their support, Lupton began learning more about her community. Her "Heritage Tour of Pamlico County" brochure includes information on places such as Hobucken Canal, the Oriental History Museum, and the Minnesott Beach ferry. The brochure contains a map, coordinates for each location, and brief facts about each place. She printed and delivered over 100 of the brochures to the Pamlico Heritage Center Board for distribution through their museum and in electronic form on their website.

As a Girl Scout, Lupton has learned about identifying a need in her community and taking action to offer a sustainable solution. Her Girl Scout Silver Award Project offers an ongoing benefit to the citizens of Pamlico County as well as to the many visitors who want to learn more about all the county has to offer.

Lupton is the daughter of Dee and Hiram Lupton. She has been a Girl Scout since 2007 and is a member of Girl Scout Troop #90 led by Dee Lupton and Gail Watts. In addition to Girl Scouting, she is an accomplished dancer and an active member of her church.

Rebecca Bennett

Bennett's Silver Award project, was a contribution to the town of Aurora's waterfront revitalization. She noticed that community members enjoyed spending time on the waterfront, but they had to bring their own chairs or sit in the back of their trucks while fishing or enjoying the view. Bennett decided that a permanent bench was needed in the area. She prepared a presentation and spoke publicly at a town commissioner's meeting about her idea and how she planned to implement it. Once her project was approved, she organized bake sales, craft sales, and invested her own money to pay for the bench. With the help of her family and friends, she delivered and installed a sturdy and weather resistant bench at the waterfront for the public to use.

Through Girl Scouts, Bennett has learned the importance of using her skills to give back to her community. Through the hard work of completing her Girl Scout Silver Award she has left a lasting impact on her town and its waterfront.

Bennett is the daughter of Dalton and Laura Bennett. She has been a Girl Scout since 2008 and is a member of Girl Scout Troop #90 led by Dee Lupton and Gail Watts. In addition to Girl Scouting, she enjoys acting and theater.

For more information, call the Pamlico County Environmental Health Office at 745-5634. All dogs and cats four months and older must be vaccinated. Our goal is to provide residents with a low cost clinic to prevent the occurrence of any rabid animals in your community. Rabies is a real threat to you and your family. If you are infected with rabies and you don't get treated, you could die. Getting your animal vaccinated is the best insurance you can have against this deadly disease.

Please bring your animals and attend one of these clinics. We are here to aid the wellbeing of your family and your pet. When you come, please leave all animals in the vehicle (regardless of carriers or restraint). If you do not have a cage, please bring someone with you to sit with your animals while you fill out appropriate paperwork. This is to prevent the animals from getting scared, running away, and fighting. The Veterinarian will come to your vehicle when it's your turn.

Thank you,

No Loyalty Here

Maureen Donald
The Editor's Desk

I'm reevaluating the meaning of loyalty - at least in the business world (is that an oxymoron?).

Anyway, every time I call DirectTV I'm greeted with a grateful-sounding representative who thanks me for being a loyal customer since 1999. Great. I'm usually successful at holding my tongue in response to the obvious patronization because the issue I'm calling about is more important at the time.

But (and it's a big but) I've vowed to test my longtime, loyal customer designation with the company once again (yes, this was not the first time). Why? Because I don't understand what being a so-called loyal customer "buys" me so to speak. On the other hand, I think all the loyal customers out there are being punished. Let's look at it this way.

Let's say as a loyal DirectTV customer, never thinking of taking my business elsewhere, an offer from a competing company seems too good to pass up (sound familiar?). Wouldn't it seem logical that my present company would consider matching the offer? Maybe the initial rate adjustment wouldn't be great for the company, but isn't making a long-time customer happy worth the investment?

To make matters worse, every time I get the mail or turn on the television (there's an irony here) competing companies and yes, my very own provider where I am considered "a loyal customer" offers really great deals to new subscribers. The question is simple - should they offer better deals to current customers or to new ones?

I realize there are contracts (they really get you there) to consider, not to mention the pain in the butt of having your home invaded for a new installation. But based on my calculations, changing your satellite company every two years, saves a lot of money - there's something very wrong with that. We have special insight into this at our home because of an unexpected circumstance.

A few years ago, our neighborhood acquired a new street name and our home was included in the initial renaming. A couple of weeks later, the mistake was noted and our address returned to what it had been prior. Bottom line, in those few weeks, companies picked up on the incorrect address change and to this day, we sometimes receive mail for the incorrect address. You guessed it - DirectTV sends stuff to both addresses and the results are amazing and very revealing.

At least once a week we get a very attractive offer that would virtually cut our television bill in half - as a new customer.

I know this doesn't apply to all industries. Take airlines as an example. Airlines give lavish frequent-flyer packages to their most loyal customers and hotels give rewards to regular customers. Ok - that's actually the only industries I can think of that acknowledge loyalty.

Some say there's no reason to reward long-time customers because the very fact that they are long-time customers means they obviously prefer the company's products or services to those of competitors. Therefore, they argue, existing customers should be "punished" with higher prices than new customers receive, given their willingness to pay them in the past, and companies should focus their rewards and incentives on new customers in an attempt to increase sales and earnings. I'm not sure what to say to this.

I have another (what a surprise!) totally absurd example of a company willing to shoot itself in the foot (at least I'd like to think so). I'm having difficulty with my iphone and called Verizon for help. A bit of disclaimer here - the technicians (yes it was multiple) truly tried to help, but nothing seemed to solve the problem. That's when I thought maybe a new phone was in order. I asked and told I wasn't due for an upgrade until November - as in about a month away. I asked if it could be pushed up under the circumstances - no (of course). So let's look at the logic here - my contract is up in February at which time I can move to another company with no penalties (that's a whole other issue) and Verizon loses my business entirely or they can move my upgrade date by a month or so and keep me a happy customer.

Obviously neither of the companies I mention have any sense of loyalty to long term customers. I'm not complaining about lack of benefits, just the lack of parity in service for new and old customers. Many businesses today leave their long term customers hanging in the dark on dated and expensive plans, while new clients are offered far cheaper services. That's just plain wrong.

Making Sense of Investing

Dan M. Roberts, IV
Financial Advisor

In many parts of the country, it's harvest season.

As a consumer, you will certainly be affected by the labors of farmers — and their particular skill set can also teach you a lot in your role as investor.

Here are a few suggestions for putting farmers' behaviors to work for you:

- Keep a cool head. Farmers have to cope with all sorts of challenges — bad weather, changing crop prices, availability and cost of land, global trade policies, etc. But the most successful farmers don't panic, follow sound agricultural practices and adapt their work habits as necessary. As an investor, you, too, need to keep a cool head, especially in the face of volatile markets, political turmoil and changes in the economy. Don't overreact to today's headlines; instead, constantly plan for tomorrow, and follow an investment strategy designed to help you achieve your goals.
- Keep learning. Farmers are constantly learning new techniques from agricultural extension services and other sources. When you invest, you can also benefit from educating yourself on the various factors — corporate earnings, changing interest rates, and so on — affecting the financial markets.

- Control your expenses. Farming isn't cheap. The cost of farm equipment is daunting, land is expensive, water usage can be enormous — the list goes on and on. The most successful farmers work hard to manage their costs, and it's an ongoing challenge. As an investor, you also can incur plenty of costs — especially if you're constantly buying and selling securities, which can lead to heavy commissions and fees, along with higher-than-necessary capital gains taxes. Following a long-term, "buy-and-hold" investment strategy can help you control your investment costs while also helping you build and preserve your long-term financial security.
- Be flexible. The ups and downs of growing commodity crops have become more frequent, forcing farmers to become more flexible and resourceful in their business. For example, many farmers have started producing specific products for specific markets, thus giving them an "all-weather" income stream. As an investor, you may also need to look for new opportunities as they arise, provided these moves are still within the overall context of your long-term strategy. To be able to make such moves, you'll want to keep a reasonable amount of "cash" in your investment portfolio.

- Be patient. Farmers plant crops and nurture them carefully for months before it's harvest time. In fact, it's possible that no other occupation requires such a willingness to wait for results — and payouts. Similarly, when you invest, you simply can't expect to instantly turn huge profits; no matter what you may hear, investing is not a "get rich quick" type of endeavor. The best investors work toward growth slowly, over a period of many decades, and only by diligently pursuing a strategy that's appropriate for their individual needs, goals and risk tolerance. In short, when it comes to investing, patience isn't just a virtue — it's a necessity.

Farmers work long hours, but they don't just work hard — they work smart. Emulating their work habits and patterns can help as you cultivate the investment fields.

Scam Alerts

Roy Cooper
NC District Attorney

Jury Duty Scammers - Again

North Carolina residents are getting calls from a phony sheriff's deputy saying they skipped jury duty and a subsequent court date.

The caller tells you that a warrant has been issued for your arrest, or soon will be, but you can pay a $900 fine now and avoid being arrested.

Con artists have tried this scam in different locations across the state over the years. They want to exploit your fear of getting on the wrong side of the law, and see if they can squeeze money out of you before you realize it's a scam.

Reports of this scam are up in North Carolina. More than twice as many North Carolina consumers have reported getting fake jury duty calls this year than in all of 2014.

To protect yourself, remember:

- Real notices for jury duty arrive by mail.
- Legitimate public officials won't call to threaten you with arrest if you don't show up for jury duty or fail to pay a fine immediately.
- Hang up on jury duty scammers and other crooks who try to trick you out of your hard-earned money.
- If you get one of these calls, report it to your local police department and file a complaint with the Attorney General's Office by calling 1-877-5-NO-SCAM or completing the form online at www.ncdoj.gov

Beware Fake Delivery Notice

Some North Carolina consumers have received delivery notices for packages they didn't order. The notice claims that a company called Green Connex has been trying to get a package to you, and asks you to call to schedule your delivery.

The package is actually just a bottle of laundry detergent, and you only get the detergent if you agree to let a company come to your home and test your water. If you say yes, you can expect a hard sell on one of the company's water treatment systems.

Scammers want the excitement of getting an unexpected package to cloud your judgment. To protect yourself:

- Be wary if you get a delivery notice for a package you don't remember ordering or from someone you don't know.
- Don't call the telephone number on the notice, which could result in unwanted telemarketing calls in the future.
- If a delivery is legitimate, the company will continue to try to contact you.
- Report possible scams to the Consumer Protection Division by calling 1-877-5-NO-SCAM or by filing a complaint online at www.ncdoj.gov.

"We Buy Homes" Signs Don't Delivery Promises

Scammers are trying to take advantage of struggling families by promising to buy homes for quick cash.

These scammers send postcards and put out signs proclaiming, "We buy homes!" But rather than buying houses as advertised, most of these companies will try to convince you to sign over control of your home. The company then leases the property out to a new tenant. As a result, you lose rights to your home but remain on the hook for mortgage payments. Homebuyers or tenants can also be hit hard by these scams, which can advertise homes in deceptive rent-to-own agreements for big upfront fees.

Before you reply to a "we buy homes" ad, remember:

These companies aren't likely to pay cash for your home or help secure a fast payoff of your current mortgage.

Beware of anyone who asks you to sign over the title to your home based only on their promises to sell your property.

If you're struggling to pay your mortgage, speak with your lender directly. You can also contact the State Home Foreclosure Prevention Project for help at 1-888-442-8188.

Prospective tenants and buyers should never pay money upfront before signing a lease or contract. Work with a real estate or leasing agent you trust.

In rent-to-own agreements, always confirm that the person you're signing the contract with is the owner of the home.

If you think you've experienced a "we buy homes" scam or have questions about mortgage help you've heard advertised, please contact our Consumer Protection Division at 1-877-5-NO-SCAM or online at www.ncdoj.gov.

EMS, Fire, Police on Lookout for Counterfeit Tourniquets

RALEIGH — A recent CBS News television story highlighted the fact that counterfeit brand-name tourniquets have now been found in the United States. The fakes mimicked a line of high-quality tourniquet medical devices that are made to self-apply in emergency situations or to be put onto a patient quickly by a trained first responder.

No complaints about the fake tourniquets have been documented in North Carolina at this time, but North Carolina Secretary of State Elaine F. Marshall and North Carolina Commissioner of Insurance and State Fire Marshal Wayne Goodwin are cautioning emergency first responders that they need to be checking the supply of tourniquets they have on hand, and to order them from reliable sources to ensure that the products they purchase are authentic.

The fakes appear to look almost exactly like the real ones, except the parts are of low-quality, breakable, and do not restrict blood flow to an injured limb as a real tourniquet does.

"We often point out that the crooks who counterfeit products do not care what happens to those who buy their shoddy merchandise," Secretary of State Elaine F. Marshall said Monday. "In this case, they are more than willing to let injured people die in their pursuit of making a dishonest buck."

"Our state's first responders are saving lives every day, and it's a critical concern that counterfeiters may compromise their ability to do that," said Insurance Commissioner and State Fire Marshal Wayne Goodwin. "I urge all fire and rescue workers to remain vigilant that counterfeit or low-quality equipment does not make its way into North Carolina."

The North Carolina Secretary of State's Office pursues product counterfeiters as part of its trademark protection law enforcement duties.

The North Carolina Department of Insurance Office of State Fire Marshal is committed to supporting efforts of the fire and rescue service through training, inspections, injury prevention programs and grant distribution.

The counterfeit devices found so far have included knock-offs of the C-A-T brand tourniquet distributed by North American Rescue (NAR) LLC brand products.

That company has issued a warning to customers that they have seen fakes imitating their "C-A-T" tourniquet and illegally using C-A-T trademarks.

The C-A-T device is often carried by a wide range of emergency personnel including EMTs, firefighters and law enforcement officers.

In a statement prepared in partnership with the NC Secretary of State's Office and the NC Department of Insurance, NAR General Counsel Curtis Stodghill noted "Counterfeit tourniquets are a serious problem, for North American Rescue with the Combat Application Tourniquet(r) and Tactical Medical with the SOF(r) Tactical Tourniquet and the public. The C-A-T(r) and SOF(r) T are class 1 life-saving medical devices and the only tourniquets approved by the Committee on Tactical Combat Casualty Care. The fakes are not made with the high standard quality control processes and are not reliable. North American Rescue is aware of catastrophic failures of the counterfeits during actual life-saving applications. It is essential for anyone purchasing a life-saving tourniquet to know they are buying authentic and quality medical devices. Lives and limbs are at risk! To ensure your Combat Application Tourniquet(r) (C-A-T(r)) is authentic, contact North American Rescue at 888-689-6277 or for the SOF(r) Tactical Tourniquet (SOF(r) T) Tactical Medical at 864-224-0081."

The fakes appear to be imported from China and sold on-line by resellers on websites such as eBay and Amazon at prices that are far below what the real products cost. The authentic models of both brands mentioned by Stodghill are manufactured in the USA.

Officials fear that well-meaning first responders trying to stock their emergency kits may be lured into buying the fakes because of the low prices.

Secretary of State Marshall requests that anyone in North Carolina finding a counterfeit tourniquet call 919-807-2178.

continue to assess themselves to support tobacco research and education. The assessment is ten cents per hundred pounds of tobacco produced in North Carolina. The funds, about $300,000 annually, is collected at buying stations by the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, and then allocated by the Tobacco Research Commission to research and extension projects for tobacco at NC State University.

Fact is stranger than fiction. I never thought it would happen in my lifetime, but Straight Road is being paved this week with asphalt. As a child I remember when it was a dirt road and Belya Radcliff's dad used to ride a stand-up "motor-grader" to smooth out the rough places. Then as I grew older, the state would put down rocks and tar and cover that with sand. When I saw the signs last week I figured we were due for another tarring. I noticed the DOT was working on the road shoulders on Trent Road and I asked one of the workers about Straight Road and he said that the paving company had been contracted to do the paving. I am so pleased to see it finally paved. I know the many bicyclists will appreciate the smoother surface for riding. I just hope that it does not become more of a raceway for the people from Florence/Whortonsville on their way to Oriental. I worry so about the intersection at Trent Road and Straight Road. I still advocate for a three way stop there. It would be much safer for all concerned. On Saturday I attended the Corvette Car Show at River Dunes, which was part of the Heartworks Weekend celebration. The weather was beautiful so I walked instead of riding the trolley. There were several booths set up, excellent musical entertainment, and demonstrations and participation in kayaking and paddle boarding were available. I visited with a couple of people from Pamlico and had a long chat with Charles Stackhouse at the Rotary Club Booth while eating a delicious hot dog. It seemed to be a big success. Reba Tiller is home from the hospital with a spring in her step. She will probably remind you of the 2015 Community Revival this week in her column. All services begin at 7:00 pm. Wednesday, 9/23: Reelsboro Christian Church, Reverend Jesse Caton; Thursday, 9/24: Trent Free Will Baptist Church, Reverend Robert Cayton Friday, 9/25: Bethel Free Will Baptist Church, Reverend Michael Roach Saturday, 9/26: Pamlico United Methodist Church, Reverend Riley Green Sunday, 9/27: Concord Christian Church, Reverend Graham Lane There is also going to be a nightly tent revival in Aurora on the 24-27. I mention this because on Saturday at 1:00 pm there will be a Sister's Session for the Women of Strength and I will be one of the guest speakers. Everyone is invited to attend. Celebrating birthdays in September are Fay Bond (9/29) and Ruth Mahlman (9/30). Celebrating their anniversary this month are Chris and Maria Machle (9/27). Have a blessed week. Depressed? The journey that began on December 10th last year has hopefully come to an end. After spending eight days in CarolinaEast I am back home and feeling wonderful! What a surprise to return and see Straight Road being paved. We had to sit and and wait for the truck with the blinking light to go through, but I am not complaining after having so many comments about the bandaids that were being put on the holes in the past. My retired niece, a nurse, has been giving me great care, along with Weeks sister and my children. Several folks stopped by after church on Sunday. There was a soup and sandwich lunch after the service as they prepare for the Community Revival this week. Starting on Wednesday at 7:00pm the first service will be held at Reelsboro Christian Church with Rev. Jesse Caton speaking. On Thursday evening said. Oriental Town Commissioner, Larry Summers, who is working on this issue, said they plan to have a full bill ready for the long legislative session for Spring of 2016. According to Summers, there are still a number of issues that need to be addressed to ensure the details are correct for this bill. "It is a flawed bill. Strictly a response to complaints. It is still attached to a motor vehicle situation which leaves many gaps (boat registration is part of motor vehicle registration. The ultimate resolution will take much more and require many changes in other conflicting current law and policy. There are multiple definitions of what is an abandoned boat and there is no definition of what is an at risk vessel. I have not seen the final version of the bill yet but I suspect that it still does not change existing laws regarding legally taking possession of a vessel and does not provide a funding stream for doing anything," said Summers.

Trent Orig. Free Will Baptist Church with Rev. Robert Cayton speaking. On Friday, Bethel Free Will Baptist Church with Rev. Michael Roach speaking. On Saturday, Pamlico United Methodist Church with Rev. Riley Green speaking. On Sunday evening, Concord Christian Church with Rev. Graham. I would like to give a "shout out" to all the folks who prayed for my recovery, the visitors, the cards the calls and the love I have felt through all of this journey. A special thanks to Anne Watson, Ann Kellogg, Claudia Bemis, Mary Katherine Christianson, Wally Umbach, and Marsha Palpham for stepping in to take over the Chorale until I can be "back in the saddle" again. Thanks to you, Maureen, for putting the Chorale in the Notables. There were fourteen new members there last week! I have another mystery. Someone brought a beautiful and delicious cranberry loaf but I don't have a name. Thought for the week--If God had to give a woman wrinkles, He might at least have put them on the soles of her feet!

South of the Border-Style Dishes and Other Good Things to Put on Your Table

MEXICAN RICE CASSEROLE

- 1 cup uncooked regular rice
- 2 cups sour cream
- 2 cups grated Monterey Jack cheese
- 2 cans (4-oz. each) chopped green chilies, drained
- 2 cups cooked chopped turkey
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Cook rice according to directions on package, omitting the salt. Stir remaining ingredients into the rice and spoon mixture into a casserole. Bake-uncovered-in 350 degree oven for about 30 minutes. Serves 8.

MEXICAN SQUASH

- 5 medium zucchini, unpeeled and cut into 1/4-inch slices
- 1 large onion, finely chopped
- 2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
- 1 can (16-oz.) whole tomatoes, undrained
- 1 can (4-oz.) chopped green chilies, undrained
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cook zucchini in boiling salted water to cover for 10 minutes or until tender. Drain well and set aside. Sauté the onions in the oil until tender and then stir in tomatoes and green chilies, cook 15 minutes or until thickened. Place zucchini in a 8x12x2-inch baking dish and top with the tomato mixture. Sprinkle casserole with Parmesan cheese and bake in 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. Serves 8.

TACO DIP

Enjoy this wonderful dip which is also great served as a salad.

- 1 can refried beans mixed with taco sauce, seasoned to taste
- 1/2 cup onions, finely chopped
- 1/2 cup green pepper, finely chopped
- 1/2 to 1 cup tomatoes, chopped
- 1 small can sliced black olives, well drained
- 1 cup sharp Cheddar cheese, grated
- 1 avocado
- Lemon juice
- Corn chips (for dipping)

On a serving platter, layer the beans, onions, green peppers, tomatoes, olives and cheese. Peel the avocado and dip in a bit of lemon juice to keep from turning brown. Then mash the avocado and spread over the vegetables. Serve with corn chips. If desired, pass around some taco sauce.

CHEESE CRISP

- 1 large flour tortilla
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, softened
- 1/2 cup grated Cheddar cheese
- Canned, chopped green chilies, well drained

Spread tortilla with butter and then heat on hot griddle or in a large skillet until crisp and firm. Sprinkle with grated cheese and desired amount of green chilies and bake until cheese melts. Cut in wedges and serve.

SOUR CREAM CHILI BAKE

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/3 cup finely chopped onions
- 1 can (16-oz.) kidney beans, rinsed and well drained
- 1 can (15-oz.) tomato sauce
- 1 envelope (1-1/4-oz.) taco seasoning mix
- 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
- 3-1/2 cups corn chips
- 1-1/4 cups sour cream

Cook the ground beef and onions until meat is browned and onions are tender, stirring to crumble meat - drain. Stir in the beans, tomato sauce, taco seasoning mix and 3/4 cup of the cheese. Sprinkle 2-1/2 cups corn chips in bottom of a 8x8x2-inch pan and cover with beef mixture. Bake in 350 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Spread sour cream over the chili. Top with remaining corn chips and cheese. Bake about 4 or 5 minutes longer. Serves 8.

JALAPEÑO CORNBREAD

- 2-1/2 cups yellow self-rising cornmeal
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 1-1/2 cups milk
- 1 can (20-oz.) cream-style corn
- 1 small can chopped jalapeños, well drained
- 2 cups finely chopped onions
- 2 cups grated sharp Cheddar cheese

Combine all dry ingredients and sift or toss to combine. Mix the eggs, oil and milk lightly and then blend into the dry ingredients. Add the corn, jalapeños, onions and cheese, blend, and pour into two generously oiled and preheated 9x11x2-inch baking dishes. Bake in 425 degree oven for 45 minutes (the bread will be very brown). Serve warm. Serves 20.

NOTE: Refrigerate any leftovers. This cornbread freezes well after baking. Let cool, wrap tightly and store in freezer.

CHILI CHEESE DIP

- 1 package (8-oz.) cream cheese, softened
- 1-1/2 cups grated mild Cheddar cheese
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon chicken-flavored bouillon granules
- Dash of Tabasco sauce
- 1 medium ripe tomato, peeled and chopped
- 1 can (4-oz.) green chopped chilies, well drained
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped onions

Combine the cream cheese, grated Cheddar cheese, lemon juice, bouillon granules and Tabasco and beat with electric mixer until smooth. Gently stir in the tomato, green chilies and onions and blend well. Chill. Serve with taco chips or corn chips. Makes about 2 cups.

- 1 can (15-oz.) tomato sauce
- 1/2 cup sliced ripe olives
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 teaspoons chili powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- Cornbread Topping (recipe follows)

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. In a heavy 10-inch skillet brown the ground beef with the onions and green peppers - drain. Stir in the kidney beans, tomato sauce, olives and seasonings. Cook-covered-over medium heat for about 15 minutes. Pour the ground beef mixture into an 8x12-inch baking dish and top with dollops of the Cornbread Topping, spreading to edges. Bake near the center of the oven at 425 degrees for 20 or 25 minutes or until cornbread topping is golden brown. Remove from oven and sprinkle with remaining 1 cup cheese. Serves 6.

National Delta Waterfowl Welcomes Chief Scientist, CEO

Delta Waterfowl has hired Dr. Scott Petrie as the organization's Chief Scientist and Chief Executive Officer. Petrie, 48, comes to Delta as an accomplished and respected leader in the waterfowl conservation community, having served as executive director at Long Point Waterfowl in Ontario for the past 18 years.

"We are pleased to bring Dr. Petrie in to lead the senior management team and to deliver on our strategic plan," said Larry Kaumeyer, Delta's chairman of the board. "Scott's experience and strong connections in both the waterfowl management world and hunting community across North America make him the ideal leader to direct Delta Waterfowl's continuing growth."

As a young man, Petrie worked on a family dairy farm in Ontario, where he also began hunting ducks and geese. His passion for waterfowl grew out of research as a "Delta student" in 1986 and 1987, when he worked on the Marsh Ecology Research Program and Minnedosa Canvasback Project. He completed an undergraduate degree in wildlife biology at the University of Guelph in Ontario, and earned his PhD at the University of Witwatersrand in South Africa. During his tenure at Long Point, Petrie and his team made major contributions to conservation and the expansion of hunting opportunities in Ontario.

"I'm very excited about returning to the organization I started with as a student," Petrie said. "I'm looking forward to leading an excellent team to increase the impact and delivery of Delta's conservation programs and build out our membership and donor base in support of our key delivery programs of Predator Management and Hen Houses."

The addition of Petrie, coupled with Jason Tharpe as Chief Operating Officer and Dr. Frank Rohwer as President, forms a strong, uniquely talented leadership team. Together, they will direct the growth of the organization's development and event system, primarily to support Predator Management and Hen House deployment across the key duck production areas of North America.

"I want Delta Waterfowl to be recognized as a key contributor to waterfowl conservation and as the premier organization supporting duck hunters across North America," Petrie said. "We need to espouse the benefits of what Delta does, and work collaboratively with our conservation partners to have an even greater impact for our members and supporters." Dr. Petrie is married and has two sons. He will be working from the Bismarck, North Dakota, office. His email is spetrie@deltawaterfowl.org.

The Delta Waterfowl embraces new approaches to habitat conservation and a focus on duck production. Their goal is to establish and cement a strong future for waterfowl and waterfowl hunting.

Scouts Help Advance Diversity during Hispanic Month

North Carolina Coastal Pines is celebrating Hispanic and Latino American culture during National Hispanic Heritage Month recognized annually through October 15.

To help kick off the month's festivities, Girl Scouts participated in UNIVISION's UniRumba! festival which celebrates the independence of Mexico and other Central American countries. As part of the event, local Girl Scouts participated in the flag ceremony for the event's official 'El Grito de la Independencia' (formal announcement of independence) alongside Consul Cinthya Prida on Sept. 13, at Durham County Stadium Park.

"For more than 100 years, Girl Scouts has been inclusive of all girls leading the way in encouraging diversity in our organization and across our country," said Lisa Jones, chief executive officer at Girl Scouts - North Carolina Coastal Pines. "Participating in National Hispanic Heritage Month provides opportunities for girls to increase their awareness through cross-cultural learning opportunities and to strengthen their appreciation of differences in others."

Launched last year and available year-round, Girl Scouts of all ages and cultures can earn a Discover Hispanic Heritage patch by participating in activities such as touring the Latin American Embassy or becoming pen pals with Girl Scouts or Girl Guides living in a Latino country. The Discovering Hispanic Heritage Patch is part of Girl Scouts - North Carolina Coastal Pines' Patch of the Month program designed to help Girl Scouts explore a wide variety of topics including culture, arts, science, history and health.

Leading the organization since 2011 is Anna Maria Chávez, the first Latina Chief Executive Officer of Girl Scouts of the USA. Anna Maria Chávez began her career journey in the very same Movement she now leads. A lifetime member of Girl Scouts of the USA and an award-winning community leader, Chávez developed the leadership skills growing up as a Girl Scout in Eloy, Arizona, that would propel her to the office of the chief executive.

"The Girl Scout movement was conceived as 'something for the girls of America and all the world' by our founder, Juliette Gordon Low. Decades ahead of her time, she imagined an organization dedicated to welcoming, empowering and encouraging all girls, regardless of race, color, national origin or creed," wrote Chavez in her Huffington Post blog earlier this year. "The Girl Scouts of the USA will continue to serve as a force for equality and diversity, as we develop strong female leaders who will make our world a better, more united and more inclusive place."

More than 59 million American women enjoyed Girl Scouting during their childhood - and that number is growing as Girl Scouts continues to inspire, challenge, and empower girls everywhere. Currently, more than 270,000 Hispanic girls - nearly six percent of the national total - are members of Girl Scouts.

"At Girl Scouts, we know that girls advance diversity in a multicultural world. Girl Scouts is committed to ensuring our membership reflects the world we live in, and is dedicated to reaching out to all girls and volunteers," Jones added.

Girl Scouts is open to all girls from kindergarten through grade 12. Adults over age 18 may become volunteers; both girls and adults volunteers can join at any time of the year. For more information and to find a troop near you, visit www.nccoastalpines.org or call (800) 284-4475.

SECU Features Student Art in Branches throughout State

In 2003, State Employees' Credit Union (SECU) launched a statewide artwork initiative that would provide art teachers with a community forum to feature their school's art programs and the creative accomplishments of their students. Twelve years later, this artwork partnership continues to delight the hearts of young students, their families and communities throughout North Carolina!

SECU branches have displayed a variety of art from participating schools ranging from pencil drawings and watercolors, to collages, clay sculptures and self-portraits. Numerous branches across the state hold Art Gallery Days and receptions for students and their families, bringing a sense pride for students, art education leaders and local schools.

"The creativity is amazing! Art really engages students, giving them an outlet to express themselves and interpret perhaps their dreams, a poem, a story or who inspires them," said Warren Peacock, Senior Vice President of the Durham-Chapel Hill Boulevard branch.

"We are happy to partner with our schools to feature the beautiful artwork; SECU members really enjoy the colorful and diverse creations!"

Peacock continued, "What started out as small project twelve years ago has developed into community recognition statewide for school art programs and teachers who encourage their students to use their imagination and skill to create such unique artwork - and they certainly deserve the spotlight."

Family of Medal of Honor Winner Joins New Bern History Walk Celebration Oct. 3

NEW BERN - Union forces made an historic amphibious landing on March 13, 1862 at Slocum Creek and then continued by land to New Bern. Confederate defenders stretched from the Neuse River to the Bullens Branch of Brice's Creek. These two forces met on March 14, 1862 at what is now known as the Battle of New Bern. A young Maltese immigrant in Co. K of the 51st New York Volunteers, Sgt. Orlando Caruana found himself in the middle of the action. According to an article in the Washington DC Evening Star newspaper "the color sergeant who was several yards in advance of the line of battle was wounded and the flagstaff shot in two. Caruana volunteered with two others to go to the rescue and they brought the wounded sergeant and the colors to the regiment, exposing themselves to a very heavy fire from the enemy." The young man distinguished himself again at the Battle of South Mountain MD. For such actions, he was awarded the Medal of Honor.

Fast forward to 2015. The New Bern Historical Society is preparing an October 3rd celebration of a newly constructed History

Plaza, in progress, features map.

Walk and Gateway Plaza at the New Bern Battlefield Park. The public is invited to join friends, neighbors, state and local officials, dignitaries, re-enactors, musicians and more. In preparation for the event, New Bern Historical Society researcher Claudia Houston, studied the history of Medal of Honor winners who fought in the Battle of New Bern and found others doing the same. One of those individuals is the great grand-daughter of Orlando Caruana, Susan Barford of Jim Thorpe, PA. The result of the connection is that the great grand-daughter of Caruana will be present October 3rd to see one of the Battlefield's newly installed interpretive panels that tells his story.

The New Bern Historical Society invites everyone to join the festivities from 3pm-5pm on Saturday October 3rd at the New Bern Battlefield Park. It is located about five miles south of New Bern, off Highway 70 East just inside the entrance of the Taberna subdivision. In addition to music, re-enactors and dignitaries, there will be free tours of the battlefield and refreshments. Come see the new 24' x 21' Gateway Plaza Battlefield Map and the 35 interpretive panels which tell the story of the battle and its aftermath. The 30+ acre Park is a unique portion of the Civil War Battle of New Bern site and is preserved in its original, natural state. It is on the National Register of Historic Places. Two other historic sites will be open free of charge on Saturday, October 3: The New Bern Academy on New and Hancock Streets and the Crockett-Miller Slave Quarters in James City. For more information, call the New Bern Historical Society office at 252-638-8558.

From the Helm

Capt. Reg Fidoe Worldwide Marine

There are a wide variety of symbols, abbreviations and terms on nautical charts that describe the physical condition of each waterway.

There is much information on a nautical chart that can warn you about potential trouble and keep you where you want to be.

Among the most important items in any body of water are the things that you cannot see. That is, the conditions below the waterline.

Every boater wants to avoid the bottom, unless you are trying to set your anchor. For the most part, the bottom is not your friend, especially at high speeds.

So what should you do when you see a symbol on your chart that looks like a "plus sign?" Does that mean that there is extra (plus) depth there? Does it mean that if you cruise over it you will "add" to the fun that you are already having?

What about the symbol that looks like the stitching on a football, inside a "dotted oval shape." No, it's not a recreation area. It represents a "dangerous wreck of unknown depth."

symbol for a "submarine volcano" (underwater).

When in doubt, it is prudent to avoid the area near any symbol that you don't understand. If you're prepared, you'll have the key to all symbols, abbreviations and terms onboard.

There are times when you are looking for a specific type of bottom condition for anchoring, swimming, diving etc. Chart No. 1 will enable you to interpret your chart with accuracy.

Chart No. 1 is available at most marine stores. It should be part of your collection of marine publications and kept aboard your vessel. It is easy to use and very informative.

Until next time, I wish you fair winds and may the depth of water always exceed the draft of your vessel.

Captain Reg Fidoe is the chief instructor of World Wide Marine Training, Inc., a U.S. Coast Guard Approved facility authorized to give examinations for captain's licenses up to 200 Ton Master, Able Seaman up to Unlimited, STCW, and other Endorsements.

Ask the Aquarium

Q. We were using dip nets over a rocky area close to shore and caught what looked like a shrimp, but it didn't look like any shrimp we'd ever seen before.

A. There are many kinds of shrimp and your description fits a banded coral shrimp, a type of cleaner shrimp.

This candy-colored crustacean lives in reef and rocky areas. It uses its small claws to remove parasites from fishes that come to these areas to feed, rest, or sometimes specifically to get cleaned of irritating, parasitic hitchhikers.

The coral shrimp's colorful white body and red-striped claws, which are sometimes bordered in purple, earned it names such as banded boxer, barber pole and bandanna prawn.

Compared to commercial shrimp, which can measure 6, 8 or even as much as 11 inches in length, the banded coral shrimp is much smaller - usually 2-5 inches long depending on species.

Discover more fascinating facts about North Carolina's aquatic environments and inhabitants by visiting the aquariums on Roanoke Island.

Some marine creatures, like this banded coral shrimp, are considered "cleaners" because they supplement their diets by cleaning parasites from other animals.

Swimming advisory lifted in Pamlico County

MOREHEAD CITY - State recreational water quality officials today lifted a precautionary swimming advisory in the Neuse River in Pamlico County.

The advisory, caused by a sewage spill at the sound-side swimming beach at 1004 Neuse Drive on the Neuse River in Oriental, was posted on Aug. 28. The advisory against swimming, skiing or otherwise coming into contact with the water has been lifted.

standards set for swimming and water play.

The signs posted at the beach informing the public of the sewage spill have been removed.

State recreational water quality officials issued the precautionary advisory because untreated wastewater can cause adverse health effects such as diarrhea, abdominal cramps and skin infections.

Watch Out for Boat Buying and Selling Scams

Learning to recognize the signs will help you protect yourself from boat buying and selling scams.

A member selling a boat online contacted us recently after receiving this email: "Thanks for your swift response. Your asking price is okay by me. I would love to come see this in person but am presently on job transfer to another state and when we make payment and you receive the funds, the mover and my representative will see them in person on my behalf and the only method of payment for now is by making by sending Bank Draft to you."

Many of the scams we see today are variations on old tricks that have been around for decades. The three that follow are currently in wide use: Counterfeit Cashier's Check/Money Order

A bogus buyer will contact you with an email like the one that our member received, offering to send a cashier's check or bank draft for the full asking price if you provide your contact information.

PayPal Variation

Recently, PayPal has become a target for scammers. The phony buyer will ask for your PayPal ID in order to send you a payment, again for substantially more than the purchase price.

information from PayPal with your user ID for more than the agreed purchase price, and the buyer will contact you asking you to send the extra money to a shipper.

Escrow Scam

In this variation, a bogus seller advertises a boat on a website often at a low but not quite scam-worthy price. When you try to buy the boat, the seller will suggest using an escrow service and recommend something that sounds legitimate like Escrowprotect.com or GoogleMoney.com.
