NOTABLE

• Military Operations Announced for July

U.S. Navy special boat teams will operate in and around Cherry Point waterways and will conduct surface direct live fire operations in the Pamlico Sound at Bombing Targets 9 and 11, July 19-22 and July 25-29, as late as 10 p.m. each day. Boaters should remain clear of the restricted areas surrounding Bombing Targets 9 and 11 in the Pamlico Sound. This is also a reminder to boaters and hunters that Bombing Target 11, commonly known as Piney Island in the southern Pamlico Sound, is a U.S. Government restricted area. Trespassers risk serious injury or death, as well as prosecution for trespassing.

Girls Just Wanna Have Fun . . .

Minnesott Community Day - The Town of Minnesott Beach and the Minnesott Beach Golf and Country Club collaborated for an inaugural Community Day to foster a community spirit among neighborhoods and between area residents and one of the town's greatest assets, the county club. The event on Saturday, July 16, kicked off with a parade. McKenna, Avery, and Amelia Greely managed to be in front of the parade with their boxers. Festivities at the Country Club followed the parade. More, page 12A

Visiting trawlers impact local economy

Oriental, often hailed as the Sailing Capital of North Carolina, has been known to boast that there are 3 boats anchored in nearby waters for every resident living within the town limits. This phenomenon began to take shape in the early 1970s when there were only a few sailboats docked at the original Oriental Marina at the western end of South Water Street.

With shrimping season beginning to move in high gear, a fleet of trawlers from South Carolina joined other vessels this weekend, some from Virginia, and some from other coastal towns in North Carolina, upping that ratio of 3:1 boats per local resident. One boat caught the eye of the Pamlico News, the Happy Jack from Rock Hill, SC. Her wheel house rests atop what would be the normal pilot house and cabin for a trawler.

Bobby Goings, the captain, said, "It was originally built for sword fishing, but its current owner outfitted it for shrimping. I get asked what it's like up there. I tell people it's like running the boat from up in the rigging. I have my bunk up there too."

Sharing a mug of coffee with Goings before departing the Oriental Harbor for a week of shrimping in the Sound were, Chip Racine, captain of the Wahine, Charles Sellers from the San Dio, and Donny Brown from Carolina Breeze. All of these vessels were from communities near Charleston and Edisto, South Carolina.

According to Goings, Sellers is a political dignitary, mayor of Moss Swamp, SC. Others in the group let out a howl when Goings broke that news, perhaps shedding some doubt on his elected status. Their personalities could be assessed as just the right fit for the character of Oriental.

Visiting boats from faraway places are known to attract attention, especially from new residents largely responsible for the influx of such a large and diverse fleet of vessels. Perhaps taken for granted in the seascape of the town, and possibly overlooked, are the visiting commercial fishing boats that provide a significant boost to the local economy.

Visiting fishing boats buy fuel, not by the gallon, but by the hundreds of gallons. They buy ice for their trips into Pamlico Sound and they stock and replenish their galleys as long as they pack here, often for weeks or months at the time. Crews frequent local restaurants and pubs. When they pack their harvests from the Pamlico Sound, they provide extra employment at the local fish houses. The processing/freezing of this catch and its ultimate shipping to other locations also increases local revenues.

Many boats in the harbor are familiar to local harbor watchers for they pack at local fish houses summer after summer. Moon Shadow, Foxy Lady, and San Dio are back this summer. Also making a return visit is the giant steel-hull trawler, Gulf Stream from Newport News, Virginia. The Pamlico Sound attracts many independently owned boats, a mixture of modern hulls constructed from steel as well as traditional wooden hulls.

Commercial fishing vessels have been shaping Oriental's destiny and defining its character for more than a century

PCC, Wesleyan College Sign Partnership

By Townley Cheek

Pamlico Community College and North Carolina Wesleyan College have signed a credit transfer agreement, enhancing and expanding options for Pamlico Community College students who wish to pursue a bachelor's degree.

On Thursday, July 14, representatives from both PCC and NC Wesleyan attended a signing ceremony at PCC's main campus in Grantsboro. In addition to the representatives from the respective Colleges, members from the PCC Board of Trustees, the Pamlico County Chamber of Commerce, and Arapahoe Charter School were in attendance.

Under the partnership, any Pamlico Community College student who is a recipient of a degree in Associate of Arts, Associate of Science, Business Administration, Criminal Justice, Early Childhood Education, Human Services Technology, Office Administration, and Medical Office Administration are eligible to transfer to NC Wesleyan with sixty hours towards a baccalaureate degree and junior standing. Additionally, this partnership provides transfer students eligibility for state and federal financial aid and scholarships.

"This agreement is proof of the commitment that NC Wesleyan and PCC have to improving and increasing educational opportunities for the residents of Pamlico County. This agreement goes beyond your traditional transfer opportunities in Arts and Science. It gives graduates of Pamlico Community College, who complete associate in applied science degrees that would otherwise be terminal, a seamless pathway to a four year degree," says Dr. Maria Fraser-Molina, Interim President, Pamlico Community College.

An agreement focused on student success, the partnership will help PCC graduates achieve a seamless transfer to NC Wesleyan, providing PCC graduates assistance with moving on toward advanced degrees.

"Students who take PCC college-level courses in high school can now continue their studies at the College and transfer to NC Wesleyan to attain a bachelor's degree if they so desire, or they could find a job with the credential they attained at PCC while they further their education. This agreement is also an acknowledgement of the high caliber graduates that PCC sends into the workforce or the university."

WEEKLY HOROSCOPE

Aries (March 21-April 19)
Lucky you! This week you will enter a four-week window that might be one of the most fun months of the year! That's because your focus will now shift to parties, social occasions, the arts, movies, sports events, and enjoying yourself with others. Yes, "good times" will be your motto. This fun month also favours romance, love affairs and new flirtations. It's also an excellent time for playful activities with children. You are a creative sign who has skills in the arts and crafts, and you will discover that in this same window of time, you have a strong desire to express yourself and your creative talents! Basically, you want the freedom to just be who you are and set your own priorities.

Taurus (April 20-May 20)
You love your home. In fact, as an archetype, Taurus is often considered to be the country squire ie. the landowner of verdant acreage with lambs gamboling on the back forty. Right now and for the next month, home repairs and home-decorating projects are tops on your agenda. Family gatherings might prompt frenzied cleaning sprees, ambitious culinary forays and exciting purchases. If you entertain friends and family at home, everyone will enjoy good food and good drink plus lively conversation! (And you know that anything that is good and useful is made of chocolate.) The next four weeks are also an excellent time to explore real-estate opportunities.

Gemini (May 21-June 20)
The next four to five weeks will suit you perfectly because you hate to be bored. You like a fast, exciting pace. Now you will find that suddenly, your attention is on friends, neighbours, siblings and relatives. People want to talk to you. In addition to numerous conversations and errands, you will also take short trips and likely read, write and study more than usual. All these activities demand an accelerated daily pace! If you can swing it, you will enjoy a quick vacation because you will appreciate beauty in your everyday surroundings. Take note: In the next month, let others know how much you love them. Don't leave this up to their imagination or guesswork. (There's no time like the pleasant.)

Cancer (June 21-July 22)
You're never casual about money. It doesn't mean you cannot spend it, but you are frugal and you like to get value for your money. These and other thoughts will absorb you for the next four weeks because your focus will be on money, cash flow, earnings and your possessions. However, at a subtle level, you will also ponder what you truly value. What matters in life? And when you do think of money and possessions, do they serve your needs or the other way around? Sometimes a possession is like an albatross. Some of you will make a major purchase this month and want to show it off to others. But no matter what you do, you will realize that it's time to establish greater control over your life through the things that you value. Don't keep stuff just for the sake of keeping it. (Your Achilles' heel.) But do get stuff you really want.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22)
This week the Sun moves into your sign to join Mercury and Venus. Wow! Three planets in Leo will prompt millions to party, flirt, have fun and take a vacation. (And those who can't take a vacation will holiday right where they live.) While it is true that Leos can sometimes be serious, they are always serious about having fun! They do it with drama and style! Naturally, the Sun will pump your energy and recharge your batteries for the rest of the year. Venus in your sign will encourage you to shop for beautiful things - jewelry, arts and clothing. For the best success, shop for wardrobe treasures before August 5. From now until August 1, you are so empowered and articulate, your odds for success are stellar!

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Two contradictory influences are at play for your sign now. Fiery Mars injects strengths and purpose into all your communications with others. You mean what you say and say what you mean! Lucky Jupiter continues to be in your sign attracting favourable people and auspicious circumstances and resources to you. In a word - it's a fortunate time for you! However, the Sun, Mercury and Venus are all hidden in your chart - sending out a completely different vibe. Their placement promotes secret activity (including clandestine trysts and secret love affairs) as well as a desire to play things low key. This is why many of you will enjoy working alone or behind the scenes in the next several weeks. It's also an excellent time to plan what you want your new year (birthday to birthday) to be all about. Ideas?

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
This week is the beginning of four weeks of enjoyable times for you because you are one of the most social signs of the zodiac, and the next four weeks will be one of the most social times of the year for you! A happy marriage indeed! As your focus now turns to friends and relationships, you will be more aware of the role they play in your life. Do you hang out with quality people? Remember that the people you befriend are a reflection of who you are. Enjoy fun times and schmoozing with friends, but you can also expect to be more involved in classes, clubs, groups and organizations. Good time to formulate future goals. ("My goal is to have an Aubusson rug and a four poster.")

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
The only time a year when the Sun is at the top of your chart will be the next four weeks. This position symbolizes a flattering light shining down on you like a spotlight. This means other people will notice you more than usual; furthermore, they will admire your capabilities and talents. Therefore, it's important to know two things: The next four weeks are the perfect time to ask for permission or approval from a boss, parent or someone in a position of authority, because they will likely comply! And secondly, if someone approaches you with a promotion or a task with increased responsibilities (because they think you look so good) - accept! Whatever you do will thrill and please them; and you won't have to do anything special. That's the power of good lighting!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
Starting this week, all Sagittarians will want to blow town because they need a change of scenery. The allure of new places, new faces and exciting adventure will tempt you; and the boredom of your daily routine will prompt you. The carrot and the stick. But then, who travels more than you? No one! Take advantage of the planetary vibes in the next four weeks that prompt you to do exactly what you want to do i.e. Visit exotic places! Travel for pleasure! Make new friends from different cultures. Some will also explore profitable opportunities in publishing, the media, medicine, the law and higher education. Make those reservations now!

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Whether you know it or not, you are a perfectionist. Others know this; but you are probably self-critical because you're not perfect. In the next four weeks, you will strive to be the best that you can be. For some, it will be obvious because you are in a physical competition or you are competing with yourself and trying to improve a skill. But for others, this will be a quiet challenge. You might decide to drop some bad habits. That's a step in the right direction. The bottom line of your soul-searching is one of ultimate self-improvement. Meanwhile, you will also deal with loans, mortgages, inheritances, insurance issues and red-tape loose ends regarding shared property. Finish what you can to help streamline your life.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
The Sun is your source of energy. For the next four weeks, the Sun will be 180 degrees opposite your sign, which is as far away from you as it gets all year. This may be symbolic; nevertheless, you will need more sleep. Your energy will be flagging either from a busy schedule or inertia. However, this opposition of the Sun, Mercury and Venus to your sign makes your contacts with partners and close friends important. You can learn a lot about these relationships. This window of time is also good for forming working units with others because you have a better appreciation of how partnerships work. The next four weeks are also an excellent time to consult experts. (An expert is someone who is fairly smart and far from home.)

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20)
Life has been good and you've been partying! But good parties have cleanup crews, right? (Sometimes the best party of all.) The next four weeks will be like a cleanup time for you because you want to run your life more efficiently. You want to be productive and effective in everything you do. This is why you're keen to pull your act together. You even want to be physically healthier, which is why you might stop a bad habit. You might give more thought to what you eat. You might start to exercise more. (You love to dance.) Make lists and think about waking earlier to begin your day. Many successful people attribute their success to rising early. The only downside is - who is around to admire your effort?

PAMLICO ANIMAL WELFARE SOCIETY (PAWS)

"Helping the Helpless"

Spay and Neuter Assistance Program

PAWS provides low-cost spay and neuter assistance to those needing help to "fix" their pets. We issue vouchers for use at local vets, or at the Spay Today clinic in Greenville.

Our mission is to reduce the pet overpopulation problem in Pamlico County and surrounding areas by preventing hundreds of unwanted, innocent animals from being born. They are often neglected, abandoned or killed in shelters so altering your pets before they breed is the humane and common-sense solution.

We are here to help! Take action today!

"Saving one animal doesn't change the world, but it changes the world for that one animal."

PAWS is an all-volunteer, non-profit, 501(c)(3) organization that relies solely on donations. Find out more about us and how you can help at PamlicoPAWS.net

A Conversation with Jim Ross, PCC's New President

By Crystal Garrett
Correspondent

In less than a week, Dr. Jim Ross will become Pamlico Community College's fifth president.

Ross will be leaving his post as the vice president for Institutional Advancement and Development and Educational Foundation Executive Director for Piedmont Virginia Community College in Charlottesville, Va.

Ross was selected for his position following an extensive nationwide search. He's served 15 years in executive leadership positions in higher education in addition to eight years in non-profit executive-level positions.

During his tenure at Piedmont Virginia Community College, he increased overall funding by 40 percent, increased annual campaign revenues by 60 percent and increased the amount of grant awards by more than 100 percent.

His list of achievements is lengthy and includes being the author of a nationally praised book on leadership. Rather than focus solely on his accolades, The Pamlico News set out to provide readers with an idea of Ross' leadership style and his goals for Pamlico County. A question and answer session with the new leader follows.

Please tell me a little bit about yourself and what made you decide to make the leap from your role as vice president in Virginia to a small community college in North Carolina, and specifically, what about Pamlico County attracted you?

"Because of the down-to-earth, wonderful people in Pamlico County, I felt at home in Pamlico County when I came for my interview. The community reminded me in many favorable ways of where my wife Pam and I were raised. Pam and I are originally from a very rural community. Pam, in fact, was raised on a small dairy farm. The friendly, warm, and caring nature of the people of Pamlico County and the extremely dedicated and highly-qualified employees and Board members of Pamlico Community College were the main considerations in saying yes when offered the presidency at PCC.

"When called for the interview, I came to Pamlico County a day early so I could get to know the people. I walked away convinced Pam and I will love the community. We have rented a condo in Oriental and are excited to be in such an uplifting and caring community. During the interview process, all the PCC employees gathered to welcome me and hear my comments, and I was extremely impressed with all I met. Their enthusiasm was incredible! During a dinner with Board members and later in the Board interview, I found them to be an outstanding group of leaders from all walks of life who care deeply about the college and community. I look forward eagerly to working with each of the PCC family and together making the college even better.

"I am an idealist who believes our purpose is to make lives better here on Earth. I have been fortunate in my career to work with outstanding colleagues and community leaders to bring about meaningful successes that have made lives and communities better. With 15 years executive community college experience and additional executive business and non-profit experience, my motive in applying for the presidency is to help even more people live better lives. Because I have helped inspire teams of dedicated people throughout my career to achieve results, it has been gratifying to see students and overall communities made better. I believe it is possible to make an even greater difference as President than I have been able to as a Vice President. For that reason, I decided to apply for the PCC presidency. It has been very difficult, however, to leave so many friends here at Piedmont Virginia Community College. The President here had a farewell reception for me this week and it was wonderful. However, it was also very sad to say goodbye."

How would you describe your leadership style in the college and in the community?

"My style is to bring out the best in others in a positive manner. My greatest strength is to work extremely well with all types of people, listen to their ideas of how to get better, and inspire people to work in high-achieving teams to pursue a noble goal which involves making lives better. Here at PCC that will of course result in students and the overall community being improved in important ways.

"I am a servant leader who believes my role is to work with others to develop a shared vision of pursuing a noble goal and then help provide the tools they need to work together in teams to accomplish worthy goals that impact people for the better. I believe in inspiring people to stretch their capacity of what they believe is possible to achieve and then providing service to them to bring out their best to make the college even better, thus enabling even more students and the overall community to be helped in important ways. I have been described as someone who is an extremely positive force with all I work with, and I am proud of that description."

Dr. Jim Ross will take the reins at Pamlico Community College next week.

What do you see as Pamlico Community College's toughest challenges and how will you tackle those as president?

"In general, small colleges receive less funding because of their size and PCC is no exception to that. One of the challenges, of course, would thus be one of the college becoming bigger through enrollment and increasing external sources of funding. It has been gratifying for me to gain extensive experience in my career in increasing institutional awareness, increasing enrollments, and increasing revenues through grants, fundraising, and working closely with governmental officials for increased funding. By doing that, funds are available to increase new offerings and overall student success."

What changes would you like to see made at the college (if any) to improve its effectiveness and service to the community?

"I look forward to meeting one-on-one with each full-time PCC employee, each College Board member, each Foundation Board member, each local elected official, each high school administrator, each member of the media, each business leader, and as many students and parents as possible to ask for their ideas on how we can become better. We will welcome all ideas with the goal of forming a collective vision of making our college better and working hard together as a team to make our service to students and the community even better in meaningful ways."

What type of partnerships do you see as imperative in order to achieve post-graduation success for your students?

"We need to pursue partnerships with every element of the community to work with us to help our students achieve success. By establishing partnerships with high schools, colleges, businesses, churches, civic groups, and elected officials, we can achieve a powerful team that works together in many ways, some of which may be unseen as of now but that will pay important dividends for students."

Finally, what do you believe the role between the students and the president should consist of?

"The college exists for students. I have always found my greatest inspiration to be that of visiting with students to learn of their dreams, hopes, fears, and their concerns and suggestions about their interactions with the institution, and then acting to help to make their academic careers more successful. I want to be known as the student's president, their greatest advocate. I look forward to meeting with as many students as possible and gaining their perspective—as those we exist to serve—as to how we can make the college experience for them even better.

"I hope especially to meet with each and every student who is not succeeding and in danger of having to withdraw. By doing so, we in many cases can make a difference so that they do not drop out and go on to succeed. Every time we help a student succeed, we make our community stronger. We make a difference with our lives by making their lives better. I look forward to making an even greater difference with my life by working together in a spirit of mutual respect and teamwork with PCC employees and our community to do great things together. Thank you Pamlico County for allowing Pam and me the great honor of becoming a neighbor of yours. Thank you, all in the PCC family, for allowing me the great honor of being your President."

Have you ever done a “yacht delivery?” The term “yacht delivery” is used to describe the job of ferrying a boat from one location to another. It can be a good job. After all, if you are doing a yacht delivery, someone else bought a boat and is paying you to take a boat ride! Right?

If you have done many yacht deliveries, you have learned that it is not always fun and games. There are often many surprises relating to the operation of the boat and the availability of necessary onboard equipment. Such problems can either be an inconvenience or a hazard.

When a customer calls you to move their boat from one place to another, there are a few things to discuss besides the cost. Some questions to ask are the following:

1. How long has the boat been sitting without the engine having been run?
2. How long has it been since the boat made a long trip.
3. How old is the fuel?
4. How much fuel is in the boat?
5. Are there current charts on the boat?
6. Does the boat have a working VHF radio?
7. Does the boat have a working GPS?
8. When was the last time the bottom and running gear was cleaned?
9. Are the batteries up to charge?
10. Does the boat have life jackets and other required safety equipment?

These are SOME of the questions to ask. While a few of them might appear trivial, we can assure you, they are not. Yacht brokers, delivery captains and others who occasionally move customers’ boats around generally prepare for the worst situation. The boat that is in “perfect shape” and is “loaded with the latest equipment” often turns out to be otherwise.

All professional mariners will carry a hand-held VHF radio and GPS on a yacht delivery. They have gone to enough boats that had a radio, but no antenna, or a GPS but no power to it.

That full fuel tank may have been full once, but it is rarely full when the delivery captain shows up. A partially full tank that sits around for a while will accumulate moisture from condensation. Old fuel can break down and “gum up” your engine components. These problems frequently cause your engine to quit, and that usually occurs at the most inopportune time.

Those “brand new” charts were new once, and might still be okay, if you were going to the Bi-Centennial in 1976. Most delivery captains bring their own charts to ensure that they have up-to-date charts for the right areas.

The importance of a clean bottom and running gear cannot be overstated. If your sailboat prop has two inches of growth all over it, pulling out into a few knots of current can be a real treat.

Standard equipment for yacht brokers is a portable battery pack for jump-starting a boat engine. Even with the best intentions, things can happen to your battery charging system. Circuit breakers trip, power cords come loose, etc.

Do yourself, and your delivery captain, a favor. Keep your equipment and your boat in shape. It’s a cheaper and safer alternative than letting things go. But most of all, it will be likely that nobody will get injured on your boat!

Until next time, we wish you clear skies, fair winds and calm seas!

World Wide Marine Training, LLC, is a U.S. Coast Guard Approved facility authorized to give examinations for captain’s licenses up to Master 200 Tons, Able Seaman up to Unlimited, STCW Basic Training, Radar, ARPA and other Endorsements. State to Hold New Flounder Permit Meetings

MOREHEAD CITY – The state’s marine fisheries division will hold two meetings this month to explain new flounder permit and reporting requirements for pound net fishermen and fish dealers.

The meetings will be held July 26 at 6 p.m. at the North Carolina Division of Marine Fisheries’ Central District Office, 5285 Highway 70 West, Morehead City and July 27 at 6 p.m. at Dare County Center Multipurpose Room, 950 Marshall C. Collins Drive, Manteo.

The new requirements stem from Supplement A to Amendment 1 of the Southern Flounder Fishery Management Plan, adopted by the Marine Fisheries Commission in November. The supplement requires a commercial pound net quota that reduces pound net flounder landings by 38 percent from the average 2011 to 2015 landings. The quota will be allocated to different waterbody management groups.

The division plans to implement and monitor the quota by requiring those who buy flounder from pound net fishermen to hold a Flounder Pound Net Dealer Permit and report pound net flounder landings daily to the Division of Marine Fisheries. The permit will be required to purchase flounder from pound net fishermen beginning Aug. 1. The daily reporting requirement begins Sept. 1.

At the meetings, state marine fisheries staff will explain the details of how this system will work. Staff will also provide the quotas for the different waterbody management groups and answer questions from fishermen and dealers.

The Flounder Pound Net Dealer Permit is now available free of charge from Division of Marine Fisheries license offices. For specific regulations on the permit, see Proclamation M-14-2016 here.

For more information, contact Mike Loeffler with the Division of Marine Fisheries at 252-264-3911 or Michael.Loeffler@ncdenr.gov.

State Certifies New State Record for Pigfish

MOREHEAD CITY – The marine fisheries division has certified a new state record for pigfish.

Jason Edwards of Rocky Mount caught the 2-pound, 12-ounce fish May 23 while fishing on the Capt. Stacy IV in the Atlantic Ocean, about 30 miles southeast of Cape Lookout. The former state record for pigfish was 2 pounds, 4 ounces, and was caught in the Atlantic Ocean in 1991.

Edwards hooked the fish using cut squid as bait on a Penn 66 rod and reel with 80-pound test line.

The pigfish measured 15 ½ inches total length (tip of the nose to the tip of the tail) and had a 14-inch girth.

Two catches tie for the current world record for pigfish. Both fish weighed 3 pounds, 5 ounces, and both were caught in 2011 in New Zealand.

For more information, contact Carole Willis, with the North Carolina Saltwater Fishing Tournament, at 252-808-8081 or carole.y.willis@ncdenr.gov.

PotashCorp Reaches 200K Safety Observations

On June 17, PotashCorp–Aurora's Light Keepers Program reached 200,000 observations, or person-to-person contacts regarding safety.

Stewart Ham (standing) gives feedback to Kin Wood during a peer-on-peer safety review.

The Light Keepers process, established in 2003, has been an important part of PotashCorp–Aurora's safety culture as an exposure based safety process designed to protect anyone who works at the site. An observation represents a "safety pause," where trained observers talk with people in the field and give feedback about positive actions, potential hazards or at-risk behaviors. The Light Keepers process has matured into the Exposure Based Safety Process that gives everyone an opportunity to actively engage in safe work practices. It also includes traditional peer-on-peer observations, which play a key role in directing and guiding safety at PotashCorp.

"Going forward we are confident that the Light Keepers will continue to serve our site, helping us to achieve and maintain a level of safety to protect all who work here," said General Manager, Mark Johnson. "Our workforce is committed to becoming one of the safest resource companies in the world."

In recent months, the Light Keepers Program has experienced an increase in the number of trained observers as well as observations made. The Program now has approximately 650 trained observers and would like to expand in the future. This upward trend in contacts has a direct correlation to the number of people participating in Light Keepers and helps PotashCorp–Aurora live up to its expectations of being one of the safest resource companies in the world.

PotashCorp is the world's largest crop nutrient company and plays an integral role in global food production. The company produces the three essential nutrients required to help farmers grow healthier, more abundant crops. With global population rising and diets improving in developing countries, these nutrients offer a responsible and practical solution to meeting the long-term demand for food. PotashCorp is the largest producer, by capacity, of potash and one of the largest producers of nitrogen and phosphate. While agriculture is its primary market, the company also produces products for animal nutrition and industrial uses. Common shares of Potash Corporation of Saskatchewan Inc. are listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange and the New York Stock Exchange.

AgCarolina Farm Credit Celebrates Farm Credit Centennial

AgCarolina Farm Credit is celebrating Farm Credit's 100th anniversary on July 17, 2016. In recognizing the organization's milestone, the President of the United States shared a message of appreciation, the House of Representatives and the Senate both introduced resolutions to commend and congratulate the Farm Credit system, and Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack lauded the organization's role in American agriculture and spoke to its ongoing importance to the future.

"By providing loans and financial services to farmers and communities through its network of cooperatives, the FCS [Farm Credit System] plays an integral role in local economies across the United States," said President Barack Obama. "I commend everyone working to ensure America's farmers, ranchers and rural communities have the resources and information they need to thrive, and I wish all those celebrating this historic occasion the very best."

The House of Representatives resolution (H.Res.591) is jointly sponsored by U.S. House Agriculture Committee Leaders Mike Conaway (R-TX), Collin Peterson (D-MN), Austin Scott (R-GA), and David Scott (D-GA) and co-sponsored by more than 160 other members of the House. The Senate resolution (S.Res.349) was introduced by Senate Agriculture Committee leaders Pat Roberts (R-KS) and Debbie Stabenow (D-MI) and co-sponsored by 56 other senators, including Thom Tillis (R-NC) and Richard Burr (R-NC). Both resolutions received bi-partisan support and applaud Farm Credit for helping to meet the credit and financial services needs of rural communities and agriculture.

"Established in 1916, Farm Credit provides farm families across America with consistent and reliable credit to help finance our Nation's food production needs," said Congressman David Rouzer (R-NC). "Without Farm Credit Services of America, our farmers would not have the resources they need to grow their crops and their livestock – putting food on the tables of every American family."

Secretary Vilsack attended the Farm Credit 100 luncheon on June 16 in D.C. The event recognized the organization's anniversary as well as the honorees of Farm Credit's Fresh Perspectives search. The Fresh Perspectives program identified leaders and visionaries in agriculture and rural America that are shaping the next 100 years.

"The rural communities and the farm community trusts Farm Credit to be there in the good times, but more importantly, in the tough times," said Secretary Vilsack. "Over the course of the last 100 years that trust has been cemented."

"It's an honor to receive the encouragement from so many," said AgCarolina Farm Credit President and CEO Dave Corum. "But it's been even more of an honor to serve our customer-owners for the past 100 years—and will continue to be as we work with the current and future generations help agriculture and rural America thrive."

Heard Any Good Ones Lately?

Ben Casey

I heard one on NPR Monday. The reporter asked someone who was scheduled to speak at the Republican National Convention on Tuesday evening about unity in the GOP.

The presumed speaker for Tuesday evening said that the party was extraordinarily unified.

I managed not to have a wreck while laughing so hard. That was about as credible as a Democrat saying that Hillary has no credibility issues.

Oh well, time was, people hated to see political conventions roll around when coverage was all-consuming on all networks, not just at night, but daytime also. The stay-at-home moms would vent their anger at not being able to see their daytime TV stories because of the convention coverage. The stories, pronounced stow-rees, were suspense-filled dramas. Leading the pack, if memory serves me correctly, was As the World Turns. Then there was The Guiding Light, Search for Tomorrow, and The Edge of Night.

I recall, back in the day when I had a real job, returning to the office after lunch, the secretaries would be around the desk of the secretary who had also just returned from lunch, or, should I say, just returned from grabbing what she could eat while watching a stow-ree. Conversation would be about some dreadful scenario unfolding in someone's life.

The innocent passerby would think, "Oh my, are her family members enduring a horrendous crisis?" only to learn that the stow-ree teller was catching up her colleagues what had happened on the stow-ree aired during her break. Meanwhile, another secretary would be rushing out the door to see the stow-ree broadcast during her lunch break, calling back to the others not to forget the details of the previous drama being retold as she raced to the door.

Not everyone dreads the political conventions now. The stow-rees of the soap operas were made up. As has been said so many times during the 2016 campaign, "You just can't make this stuff up." What is not made up is often much more interesting than what is made up. The political news from both major parties is made up of stow-rees that are not guiding lights, but melodramas keeping the world - not on the edge of night - but on the edge of darkness.

I am too old and too much of a curmudgeon to adapt to the new culture of America. Candidates today use language to describe how America is going to be made great again that would have brought out a switch from Mama. I think America was great when great leaders inspired others with personal dignity and decorum.

From one side of the aisle to the other, from Everett Dirksen to Patrick Moynihan, America was greater when political rhetoric was just that, rhetoric, not vulgar language acting as adrenaline to stimulate the worst in human behavior, in action and attitude.

I hear some people say they are not going to vote because they are so disgusted with the presumed candidates from each of the major parties. That's sad.

I am going to vote for real change. I am going to vote for the real candidate, not the presumed candidate, of a real party that offers the only hope for the change that Americans want. Some say I am throwing my vote away, that the Libertarian candidate will not win.

If I were to vote for someone I feel does not deserve to be a candidate, much less be president, that's when I would be throwing my vote away. I'll be able to sleep at night if I know I didn't throw my vote away.

Trouble is, if either of the other two candidates win, sleep for all of us might be hard to come by.

Making Sense of InvestingDan M. Roberts, IV
Financial Advisor

As you know by now, the United Kingdom (U.K.) has voted to leave the European Union. The "Brexit" vote is expected to have major implications for Britain's trade and economic relationships - but how might it affect you, as an individual investor?

At first glance, you might be worried. After all, right after the results came in, we saw a sharp decline in stock markets around the world, including here in the United States. And we may well see more volatility in the near term. But by taking a step back and looking at the big picture, you might see that the outlook for investors is nowhere near as gloomy as you may have thought.

Here are some suggestions for maintaining your perspective:

- Be patient. Despite the Brexit vote, it's not so simple for the U.K. to just pack its bags and bid "adieu" to the European Union. In fact, it may take three or more years before the U.K. actually departs. This extended time period can give financial markets a chance to absorb the new reality - while giving investors time to ponder their long-term strategy.

- Don't forget about the "fundamentals." Financial markets dislike uncertainty, which is why they fell so sharply after Brexit. But the markets move much faster than the fundamentals that actually drive stock prices - and, despite Brexit, these fundamentals remain generally positive. In the U.S., economic growth is expected to continue in the 2%-2.5% range, and the prospects of a recession remain small. U.S. companies will continue to operate in Britain as before, and British companies will still participate in the global economy.

- Review your investment portfolio - and look for opportunities. If you've done a good job of building a diversified portfolio that's based on your individual needs, goals, risk tolerance and time horizon, you may not need to take any action in the immediate aftermath of Brexit. Diversification is especially important, because it's possible that some financial assets may be more negatively affected by Brexit than others; you can blunt this impact by owning a wide range of investments. (Keep in mind, though, that while diversification can ease the effects of volatility, it can't guarantee profits or protect against all losses.) As you review your holdings, you may even want to consider adding international and U.S. stocks, if appropriate for your situation, to take advantage of the drop in price of many quality companies. As always, of course, be aware that the value of your shares will fluctuate and you may lose principal. Also, international investing does carry some special risks, mostly related to currency fluctuations and foreign political and economic events.

- Keep your focus on the long term. If Brexit-inspired volatility does go on for a while, keep your focus on your long-term financial goals, which have not changed. By staying focused on the "far horizon," so to speak, you'll be less tempted to make short-term moves that may not be in your best interest.

The Brexit vote may not be a positive development for the global economy. But we've gotten past bigger events in the past, including wars and other political crises, and we'll get through this one, too. As the British themselves famously posted on their walls during World War II, "Keep Calm and Carry On." That's good advice for investors, too.

Guard Your Credit Following Wendy's BreachAttorney General
Roy Cooper

Wendy's franchises affected in at least nine North Carolina cities

In the wake of a malware data breach that affected more than 1,000 Wendy's fast food restaurants nationwide, consumers should take action to avoid identity theft, Attorney General Roy Cooper said today.

"If your personal information could have been compromised as a result of this data breach, don't delay in taking steps to protect your accounts and lock down your credit," Cooper said. "Be wary of scammers who may try to take advantage of the breach."

So far, Cooper's office has been notified that the data breach has compromised information from Wendy's franchises in the following locations: Cashiers, Cherokee, Clinton, Fayetteville, Hope Mills, Lumberton, Murphy, Siler City and Warsaw. Consumers are encouraged to continue checking the Wendy's website for updates on other locations potentially affected by the breach.

Wendy's first alerted consumers of unusual card activity in February and June of this year. In a news release issued last week, the company announced that a malware variant may have exposed customers' payment card data, cardholder names, credit or debit card numbers, expiration dates, cardholder verification values and service codes. Consumers who have visited a Wendy's in one of the impacted locations and used a payment card should notify their payment card provider of the incident and consider requesting a new card.

Cooper also recommends that consumers who think they may have been affected take the following steps immediately:

- Check your credit reports. Criminals who have personal information can use it to take out credit cards or loans and run up debts in your name. Under federal law, you are entitled to one free credit report each year from all three major credit bureaus.
- Use services offered to victims. Wendy's announced that it will provide one year of free credit monitoring and identity protection to anyone impacted by the data breach.
- Request a fraud alert from one of the three major credit bureaus, which can protect your bank and credit accounts for up to 90 days.
- Consider a security freeze for your credit reports to prevent criminals from opening up new accounts or lines of credit. North Carolina consumers can get a free security freeze online.

- Report suspicious activity. If you spot a charge, payment, loan, or line of credit you don't recognize on your credit report, contact local law enforcement immediately.
- Watch out for follow up scams that may try to trick possible breach victims into providing additional personal information, such as phishing emails and phony websites.

North Carolina law requires businesses to notify consumers if their personal information has been breached. They are also required to report security breaches to the Attorney General's Office. Since 2005, almost 3,500 breaches that involved information about more than 9.3 million North Carolina consumers have been reported to the Attorney General's Office.

"Cyberattacks and breaches are taking place more frequently thanks to technology," Cooper warned. "Consumers need to be vigilant about monitoring their accounts and report any suspicious activity as quickly as possible."

For more information on security breaches and additional steps consumers can take to protect themselves, visit our website at ncdoj.gov or contact our Consumer Protection Division by calling 1-877-5-NO-SCAM toll-free within North Carolina.

Time to Check Poll PositionJohn Hood
Chairman,
John Locke
Foundation

In 2016 North Carolina features the country's most competitive election for governor, one of the country's most competitive elections for U.S. Senate, and the tightest state race in the country between Democratic presidential nominee Hillary Clinton and Republican nominee Donald Trump.

This is one of those bad news/good news situations. I'll give you the bad news first: if you are already sick and tired of hearing about politics and you live in North Carolina, the next four months of your life are going to be unpleasant.

On the flipside, if you are a political junkie, North Carolina is the place to be. For example, the race between Republican Gov. Pat McCrory and his Democratic challenger, Attorney General Roy Cooper, promises to be one of the most compelling electoral contests in the country.

Both men are experienced, talented politicians. Both of their campaign teams are also experienced, talented, and likely to be well-financed (although Cooper has so far out-raised McCrory, reflecting just how motivated North Carolina Democrats are to regain some power in what had until recently been a traditionally Democratic state). The gubernatorial race is also attracting thousands of volunteers and millions of dollars from independent groups, in-state and out-of-state, that have a strong interest in the outcome.

Until both major parties conclude their national conventions, the dynamics of the Clinton-Trump race in North Carolina will remain uncertain. Generally speaking, if Trump is fighting to keep our state in the red column, that's good news for Clinton. She doesn't need North Carolina's 15 electoral votes to win. Trump does.

Right now, Clinton enjoys a slight edge in the most recent polls of North Carolina voters, while Republican U.S. Sen. Richard Burr leads his Democratic opponent, former state Rep. Deborah Ross, by a wider margin. McCrory and Cooper are almost precisely tied.

I wouldn't put a lot of stock in these early indicators, for several reasons. First, midsummer polls aren't all that predictive of the outcome of competitive races, if history is any guide. Intervening events can change the priorities that voters place on certain issues, or change their views of candidates - particularly those with whom they are not already greatly familiar. Cooper, Ross, and Burr all fit that latter category.

Second, not all pollsters studying the North Carolina electorate are yet attempting to predict which voters will turn out this fall. Some surveys screen for "likely voters." Others just ask all registered voters to weigh in, regardless of how likely they are to cast ballots. This can make a big difference, although not always in the direction you might think. Right now, among the recent polls of registered North Carolina voters, both Cooper and Clinton have average leads of two percentage points in their respective races. But among polls of likely voters, McCrory actually leads Cooper by two points - while Clinton's lead over Trump widens to five points.

Is that conceivable? Yes, actually. There are always some people whose partisan allegiances are split or who only care about a single race (usually the presidency). Their proclivities to turn out in the fall aren't necessarily uniform. It could be that the North Carolinians who say they'll split their tickets for McCrory and Clinton - or to vote only for Clinton and then leave - are more likely to turn out than those who are say they are potential Trump-only or Trump-Cooper voters.

Most models that seek to predict the outcome of presidential, senatorial, or gubernatorial races don't just plug in polling averages and spit out an answer. They include lots of other variables in the equation such as incumbency status, voter ideology, and economic conditions. That's why some savvy analysts of North Carolina politics believe McCrory has at least a modest edge for reelection and that Trump will do better in the state than current polling would suggest.

I have no firm prediction to make - other than third-party candidates, such as Libertarian Gary Johnson for president, will probably do better than they have in a long while. Restless people emigrate.

Goose Creek Island 55 Plus Club met Thursday at the Community Center with President Shelby Keech presiding. Today was "sharing day" and we talked of many things. Edith Campen and I gave a report on our 63rd year PCHS Reunion. We were very disappointed that Mavis Gibbs O'Neal was not there. We soon learned that she was in the hospital and is now recovering at home. Bob Johnson led in a History Test (things from the 1940s for those 50 or over). Everyone did well and it was a lot of fun!

Prayer List: Mavis Gibbs O'Neal, Camden Popperwill, Doug Campen and Ponce Ham Sr.
 Happy Birthday: Sylvia Hopkins Buck, Nina O'Neal Byrant, Gail Popperwill Hodges - Jul 22, Elizabeth Price and Jackie Mercer McCotter - Jul 23, Blair Lewis, Ila Carawan Barnes, Patricia Ireland Toler - Jul 24, Sierra Hartkoph, Jacob Popperwill and Guy Dwayne Ireland - Jul 25, Sammie Williamson Carawan, Jackie Ferrell Ireland, Jr. - Jul 26, Billy Allen - Jul 27. Happy Anniversary Michael & Lorraine Ireland Jun 24.
 Rita Lupton, Musa Harris and Bertie Bowen drove to Beaufort Wednesday to visit their older sister, Nina Voliva Jarvis. Nina is doing well. They enjoyed lunch at Roland's Barbeque and spent a nice day together.
 Leland and Nick Tetterton attended the Tetterton Family Reunion July 9 at the Canady Landing, home of Hix Browne. Willis and Aleatha Jones Tetterton raised 12 children at their Snoades Creek home. All are now deceased with the passing of Veda Tetterton Johnson on Sept. 12, 2013 at the age of 97 yrs. Willis and Aleatha had 23 grandchildren and many great grandchildren. The family has lived in southeast Beaufort County for about 140 years. Rick Tetterton, son of Leland, now owns and lives in the homeplace. There was over 40 descendants in attendance representing three generations from NC, Va. and Canada. There was an abundance of home cooked food and desserts. Walter Johnson, son of Cate and Opal blessed the food. At age 77, Walter is the oldest living cousin. Everyone enjoyed the food, laughter and fellowship for several hours. (Contributed by Leland Tetterton)

Lottie Campen Caroon joined Randy and Sue Caroon and members of Sue's family from New York for a vacation at the beach in Garden City, South Carolina last week.
 Congratulations to Madison Sadler and the ShockWaves 14 U Girls Softball Team from Beaufort County who represented Eastern North Carolina in Ocala, Florida at the ESPN Wide World of Sports Center. The girls won 8 games without a loss. The Championship games was played Saturday morning with the ShockWaves winning 5-4 to win the World Series. Madison is the daughter of Merry and Earl Sadler of Lowland.

Leah Swindell of New Bern was honored July 16 at the Goose Creek Island Community Center with a bridal shower hosted by Hope Sadler Messer and Nancy Rose Reeder Johnson. Guests enjoyed playing games and delicious refreshments. The honoree received many lovely and useful gifts. Leah and Ervin Sadler are planning a July 30 wedding.

Today I celebrated my 81st birthday! I proudly dropped my 3 quarters, nickel and penny in the birthday money church and stood with Janie Newton who didn't need nearly as much money! The congregation sang Happy Birthday to us! My family came Sunday afternoon with barbeque, ice cream cake and cupcakes - Rhonda, Gary & Amber, Mark, Jennie & Jenna, Matthew, Lil Mark, Reva and great granddaughter Emma Noelle from Greenville. It was a good day! Thanks to all my family and friends who sent cards or called. I love ya'll.

 Debbie Roach, wife of the Reverend Michael Roach of Pamlico United Methodist, church fell at home this week and broke her foot and shin bone. She went home from the hospital with several pins and other apparatus attached. She will go back for more surgery in a couple of weeks. Please keep her in your prayers.
 We were privileged to attend the 70th birthday party for Charles Stackhouse on Friday. Zeffie cooked a pig, and Ann provided some wonderful side dishes. The weather was threatening, but the rain held off until after the guests had eaten. A good time was had by all. It was a good chance to fellowship with neighbors and friends you do not see on a regular basis. It was especially nice of Charles' grandchildren to all come out with a sparkler and sing happy birthday to him. (Twice) He was blessed in that he did not have to blow out any candles, because the sparklers went out on their own. That many candles would have been a fire hazard, although many of the members of the fire department were on hand if needed.

Speaking of birthdays, Sunday was columnist Annette Jones birthday. We pray she had a blessed day on Goose Creek Island.
 Those celebrating July birthdays include Betty Lou Burnett Bishop (7/20), Joanne Gwaltney Ashton (7/22), Carlton Muse and Gladys Wright (7/26) and Bertha Gilliam (7/31). Celebrating their anniversaries in July are Cathy and Brent Fulcher (7/24).

It is five o'clock on Monday morning, and as I look out over the creek, it is a beautiful sight! I expect to see boats going out shortly as the fishermen try their luck. Lots of boats, power and sailboats and jet skis going by last week as folks enjoy their vacations.
 Eddie Godwin took my crab pots down to the marina showing some of the children how to catch crabs. I managed to get enough crab meat picked out to make five deviled crabs. Made sure that Mrs. Winky got one because it is one of her favorite things. I think her nephew Roy Barnhill and Eddie finished the repairs they were doing on her house.
 Maura and MeLydia, my next door neighbors were here for the weekend and mowed part of our yard with their new very fast lawnmower. Our neighbor Dave is fast becoming the biggest boat and homeowner in Whortonsville. He just bought another big boat.
 Caleb and Marian Marsh are enjoying their sons being here for the week. Weeks and I traveled to Harrells on Sunday to visit my sister Maomi. Her son has a blueberry farm outside Beulaville, so someone gave Maomi material with blueberries and she is making her son a quilt. She is quite a seamstress so it will be beautiful. This is the sister that worked with me to finish the cathedral window quilt that had almost two thousand little squares. Never tackle anything like that again!!

 Missed church on Sunday but understand it was a good service with communion and quarterly meeting afterward. On Saturday many of us will be celebrating Bill Blair's 90th birthday party in the fellowship hall of the Oriental Methodist Church. Many celebrated with Frank Murphy this past Saturday for his 80th birthday. Bill and Frank were members of the Pamlico Chorale for many years as soloists and part of the full Chorale. The Chorale is planning to be a part of the celebration in Vandemere in August.
 This is the week of the Republican Convention, so hopefully there will not be any violence. The people of our country need to love each other and that will make our country "great." Passed a number of bicycle riders on Sunday as we traveled on Straight Road and in other areas on our trip to Harrells.
 Thought for the week--There is nothing permanent but change.

Earnings for education top $600 million for first time

• Lottery marks 10th year by setting new records for sales and earnings winners put their money right back to work in the economy, by paying bills, buying new houses or cars, taking vacations, saving and investing the money for retirement or college, or donating to their personal good causes.

RALEIGH – For the 10th year in a row, the N.C. Education Lottery set new records in sales and earnings in fiscal year 2016, raising more than $600 million for education programs in North Carolina.

As the lottery ended its fiscal year on June 30, preliminary and unaudited results showed lottery ticket sales totaled $2.38 billion, up 20 percent from the year before. The lottery raised $607.8 million for education, up 16.5 percent from the year before.

"This record of success is possible because North Carolinians enjoy playing lottery games and support the lottery's mission," said Alice Garland, the lottery's executive director. "Prizes averaged $4.1 million a day last year, providing lots of good luck to folks all across the state. The fun adds up to more than $600 million to support education that wouldn't be there otherwise."

Garland said the main factors contributing to the record sales were the increasing popularity of the lottery's instant games and the world-record Powerball jackpot in January of $1.5 billion.

Final transfers of revenues to the state in June brought the lottery's total contribution since inception to more than $4.4 billion.

During the year, prizes of $1 million or more were won 58 times, including two wins of $10 million. Total prize money won was $1.5 billion, or on average about $4.1 million a day. Many Retailers across the state earned $167 million in commissions, up 21 percent, or $29 million. The commissions play an important role in the state's retail economy.

Legislators decide how lottery proceeds are best used. Currently, lottery proceeds help all school systems with the costs of non-instructional staff; help counties with the costs of building and repairing schools; help North Carolina students pay the cost of going to a state university or community college, and help "at-risk" four-year-olds get a better start in school by covering the costs of attending an academic preschool in the N.C. Pre-K Program.

What are the reasons you eat meat?

It's healthy. There are 29 lean cuts of beef, according to USDA standards. Beef provides nutrients like zinc, iron, protein and B vitamins, and half of the fat found in beef is monounsaturated, the same heart-healthy fats found in olive oil.

It's easy. Using recipes from befitswhatsfordinner.com, beef is an easy addition to a well-balanced meal. Simply fire up the grill or turn on the slow cooker, and you've got a healthy, simple meal that stars meat.

Whipping Up Stuff for Hot Days Ahead

BAKED SIRLOIN

1 large, 3-inch thick sirloin steak (or other favorite tender cut)
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 large Vidalia or other sweet onion, thinly sliced
1 cup catsup
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 garlic clove, minced
1 or 2 cans (4-oz. each) sliced mushrooms, drained

Sear meat on both sides and then season with salt and pepper on both sides. Place meat in baking pan and arrange onion slices over the meat. Combine remaining ingredients and spread over the meat and the onions. Bake-uncovered-in 350 degree oven for 1 hour for rare and about 10 or so minutes for medium rare. Cut meat diagonally into thin slices and serve with pan juices. Serves 10.

BAKED SPAGHETTI

1 pound ground beef
1/4 cup finely chopped onions
1/4 cup finely chopped green peppers
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 jar (16-oz.) spaghetti sauce
1 package (8-oz.) spaghetti
1 cup sour cream
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup mozzarella cheese, grated

Sauté the onions and green peppers in the butter or margarine until tender - add the beef and cook and stir to crumble beef until slightly browned. Stir in spaghetti sauce and simmer for a few minutes. Cook the spaghetti according to directions on package and drain well. Arrange layers of spaghetti, sour cream and cottage cheese in baking dish. Cover with meat mixture, sprinkle with cheese and bake in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Serves 8.

SPINACH STUFFED SHELLS

1 package (12-oz.) jumbo macaroni shells
2 packages (9-oz. each) frozen creamed spinach
1 container (15-oz.) ricotta cheese
1 package (8-oz.) mozzarella cheese, grated
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 pound ground beef
1 jar (32-oz.) spaghetti sauce

Prepare macaroni shells according to directions on package - drain well. Prepare creamed spinach according to directions of package. Let spinach cool slightly and then stir in the ricotta cheese, mozzarella cheese, salt and pepper and blend well. Stuff each shell with about one tablespoonful of mixture. Arrange the shells in baking dish - set aside. In a large skillet over medium heat, brown the ground beef, stirring to crumble, and then stir in spaghetti sauce. Spoon sauce over the casserole, cover with foil, and bake in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes or until bubbly.

BAKED SUPREME CHICKEN

1 chicken, cut up

Fruit Glaze:
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
2 tablespoons dark corn syrup
1 egg or 2 egg whites
2 tablespoons biscuit mix
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons sherry or wine
1/4 cup apricot juice
1/4 cup pineapple preserves

Combine all the ingredients for the Fruit Glaze. Place cut up chicken in a 9x13-inch baking dish and baste with half of the glaze. Bake in 325 degree oven for 30 minutes and then baste with remaining half of glaze. Bake 30 minutes longer. Serves 4.

SHRIMP QUICHE

1 (9-inch) unbaked pastry shell
1 pound shrimp, cleaned and cooked
1 tablespoon flour
3 eggs, beaten
1 cup half-and-half cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash of Tabasco
1/4 pound Swiss cheese, grated
1 package (8-oz.) Gruyere cheese, grated

Cut shrimp in small pieces. Gently combine the flour, eggs, cream and seasonings. Spread 3/4 of the cheeses in the pastry shell. Add the shrimp and cover with remaining cheese. Pour egg mixture over the cheese and shrimp. Bake in 400 degree oven for 15 minutes, reduce heat to 325 degrees and continue baking 40 minutes longer or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Let stand for 10 minutes before serving. Serves 6.

TUNA CHEESIES

1 can (6-oz.) tuna, drained
1/4 cup chopped onions
1/4 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Butter or margarine
4 English muffins, halved
8 slices of tomato
8 slices of American or Swiss cheese
Mayonnaise

Combine the tuna, onions, celery, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, salt and pepper. Butter the muffin halves and toast under broiler. Spread toasted muffins with tuna mixture and top each with a slice of tomato. Spread each slice of cheese with a bit of mayonnaise and top each muffin. Broil until cheese is lightly browned.

FROZEN CUCUMBERS

2 quarts unpeeled and sliced pickling cucumbers (gherkins)
1 or 2 sweet onions, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons pickling salt
1/2 cup vinegar
1-1/8 cups sugar

Combine the cucumbers, onions and pickling salt. Let sit for 2 hours - stirring several times. Drain, rinse thoroughly and drain well. In a small saucepan, combine the vinegar and sugar and heat just until sugar is dissolved - cool. Pour over thoroughly drained cucumbers and pack into freezer containers and freeze. Thaw before serving. Makes 3 pints.

CHEESEBURGER CASSEROLE

1-1/2 pounds ground beef
1 green pepper, finely chopped
1 medium sweet onion, finely chopped

1 can (15-oz.) tomato sauce
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups grated Cheddar cheese
1 can dinner flake rolls

In a large skillet, brown the ground beef and stir to crumble. Add the green peppers and onions and cook until tender - drain well. Add the tomato sauce and salt and simmer for about 15 or 20 minutes. Place a layer of meat mixture in baking dish and layer with cheese. Top with remainder meat mixture and top with the biscuits. Bake in 375 degree oven for 20 minutes or until biscuits are done and golden brown. Serves 8.

SWISS GREEN BEANS

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 teaspoon finely chopped onions
1 small can sliced mushrooms
1/4 green pepper, finely chopped
3 teaspoon sugar
1 cup sour cream
2 cans whole green beans, well drained
2 cups grated Swiss cheese
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup crushed cornflakes

Melt two tablespoons of the butter in a saucepan, add the onions, mushrooms and green pepper and cook and stir until tender. Blend in the flour, salt, pepper and sugar and then stir in sour cream. Heat the mixture thoroughly, but do not boil. Stir in green beans and cheese. Pour into buttered baking dish. Toss the crushed cornflakes in the remaining butter until well coated and sprinkle over the green beans and cheese. Bake in 350 degree oven for 20 minutes.

CHEESEBURGER PIE

1 9-inch unbaked pastry shell
1 pound ground beef
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup breadcrumbs
1/2 can (8-oz.) tomato sauce
1/4 cup finely chopped onions
1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper

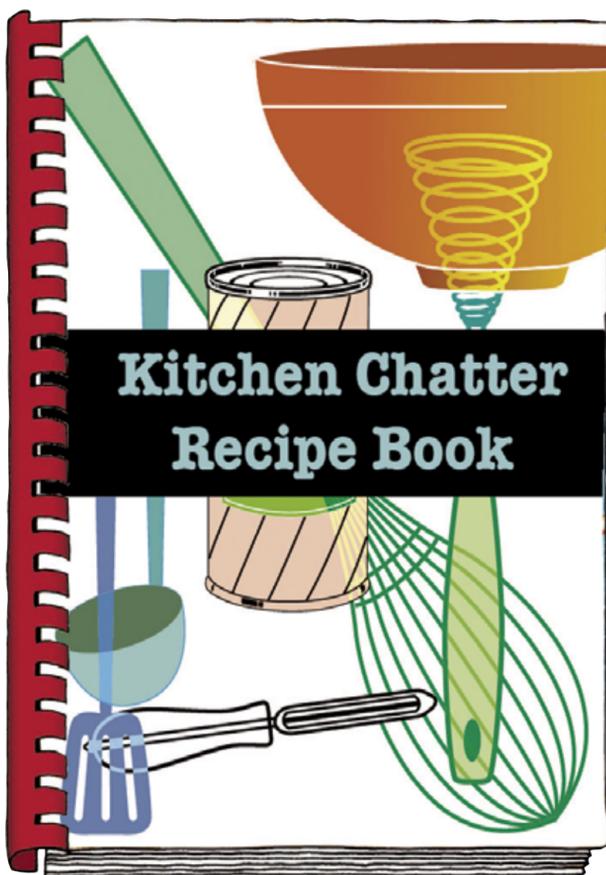

Topping:
1 eggs, slightly beaten
1/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups grated Cheddar cheese

Cook the ground beef in a skillet until browned, stirring to crumble - drain. Add the salt, oregano, pepper, breadcrumbs, tomato sauce, onions and green pepper to the hamburger and blend well. Spoon mixture into pastry shell. Combine the topping ingredients, blend well, and spread over the meat mixture. Bake in 425 degree oven for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

HAM & GRITS NO-CRUST QUICHE

1/2 cup water
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup quick cooking grits, uncooked
1 can (12-oz.) evaporated milk
1-1/2 cups chopped, cooked ham
1 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
3 large eggs, lightly beaten
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 or 2 teaspoons hot sauce

Bring water and salt to a boil in a large saucepan and stir in grits. Remove from heat and cover and let stand 5 minutes (mixture will be thick). Stir in milk, ham, cheese, eggs, parsley, dry mustard and hot sauce and blend well. Pour mixture into a lightly greased 9-1/2-inch quiche dish or a 9-1/2-inch deep dish pie-plate. Bake in 350 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Let stand about 5 or 10 minutes before cutting into wedges to serve. Serves 6.

August Programs at NC Museum of History

Meet former NASCAR driver Junior Johnson, watch fabric beader Elizabeth Constant Lewis at work, and experience more this August at the N.C. Museum of History in Raleigh.

Talk with the state's legendary driver during the program First Fridays at the Museum: Moonshine. NASCAR. Junior Johnson. See the 1973 film "The Last American Hero" about this Tar Heel who left the moonshining business to become a professional stock car racer.

If you love beautiful beading, drop in to watch Lewis demonstrate her craft. She learned the skill from her grandmother, Elizabeth Otey "Lizzie" Constant, one of the sisters featured in the exhibit Made Especially for You by Willie Kay.

Parents, as the dog days of summer linger, bring the children to some cool programs. Kids can learn about games in colonial times or explore the museum's garden exhibit and make a related craft.

There's all this and more in August. Admission is free unless otherwise noted. Parking is free on weekends.

- First Fridays at the Museum: Moonshine. NASCAR. Junior Johnson.
Friday, Aug. 5, 5-9 p.m.
The three were inseparable after Esquire magazine published "The Last American Hero Is Junior Johnson. Yes!" in 1965. Meet the legendary driver, watch a documentary short (not rated) and a feature-length film, "The Last American Hero" (PG-L.S), starring Jeff Bridges. While supplies last, get a sample of Midnight Moon, the 'shine that's earned Junior's approval! Samples from Raleigh's Clouds Brewing will also be available, and the Museum Shop will be open throughout the evening.

- History à la Carte: Bitters and Shrubs, a History with Crude Bitters

Wednesday, Aug. 10, noon-1 p.m.

Bring your lunch, or RSVP at NCMOH-programs.com to register and purchase a boxed lunch by Monday, July 11, at noon. Beverages provided. For information, call 919-807-7969.

Craig Rudewicz, Owner, Crude Bitters and Sodas
Rudewicz will trace the history of bitters from a crude medicinal origin to a critical cocktail ingredient. He will also talk about "shrubs," a colonial soda made from fruit preserved in sugar and vinegar. Some samples will be on hand to sip and smell.

- Conservation Assistance Day
Friday, Aug. 12, 9:30 a.m.-4 p.m.
Appointment required. Call 919-807-7823.

Make an appointment and bring up to three objects for assessment and advice on care from a Museum of History conservator. The museum does not provide estimates on value.

- Artist at Work: Elizabeth Constant Lewis
Saturday, Aug. 13, 1-3 p.m. (drop-in program)

See Lewis demonstrate her beading skill. She was taught to bead by her grandmother, Elizabeth Otey "Lizzie" Constant, one of the sisters featured in the lobby exhibit Made Especially for You by Willie Kay.

- Make It, Take It: Bead It
Saturday, Aug. 13, 1-3 p.m. (drop-in program)

Watch fabric beader Elizabeth Constant Lewis at work, and make a bead pin to take home.

- Saturdays in the Garden
Saturday, Aug. 20, 1:30-2:30 p.m.
Join the museum's garden staff for an informal tour of the History of the Harvest exhibit along Bicentennial Plaza. Tours begin at the information desk in the lobby.
Supported with funds from Syngenta.

The Inaugural Minnesott Community Day

Minnesott Golf & County Club partnered with the Town of Minnesott Beach to stage Minnesott Community Day, Saturday, July 16. A parade of novel decorations on some 15 golf carts, two pieces of equipment from Arapahoe Fire and Rescue, and El Toro, the Mean Greens Machine from the golf course maintenance shop kicked off the event. An added feature were three descendants from the Boxer Rebellion in China at the turn of the last century chaperoned by the Greely family. Following the parade, the MG&CC played host to the public offering exhibits, food, games, swimming, and golf. Three social memberships for the month of August were raffled along with three rounds of golf for parties of four.

Minnesott Commissioner Carolyn Casey observed, "This may be a humble beginning, but we anticipate it to grow in scope and size year to year. This event is designed to foster community involvement from neighborhood to neighborhood and between neighborhoods and the country club. We feel it important to help showcase the amenities of the country club and it's value not only to Minnesott Beach, but to Pamlico County as whole."

Intemperate temperatures and threatening thundershowers did little to dampen the spirit of an opportunity for residents to exhibit pride in their home town.

Gordon Carberry came in full Scottish regalia, There was dancing in the street, a Hawaiian luau, and free water for parade participants. With the ever present danger of fire at parades, a fire truck was ready The resident alligator from the golf course ponds rode atop a golf cart and the queen waved.
