Traffic Stop, Complaints Lead To Multiple Arrests

Numerous complaints about suspected drug activity and a traffic stop led authorities to execute a search warrant for a home on Trent Road in Oriental last Thursday. Investigators with the Pamlico County Sheriff's Office searched the home of Cameron R. Brown where they uncovered approximately five ounces of cocaine, drug paraphernalia and approximately $12,000.00 in cash. In a related incident prior to the the search deputies pulled over a vehicle driven by Montracies Styron of Oriental. Information gathered during that traffic stop is what led authorities to believe that illegal activities were taking place at the residence.

Carteret County Sheriff's Office, Jones County Sheriff's Office and members of the Army National Guard Counterdrug Unit assisted in the Investigation.

Those arrested were:

Cameron R. Brown D.O.B 10/18/1989 3057 Trent Road, Oriental Charges: Sell/Deliver Cocaine, Maintain Dwelling Place for the Sale of Controlled Substance, PWISD Cocaine, Trafficking Cocaine (two counts), and Manufacture Cocaine Bond: $250,000.00 Secured

Montracies Cornelius Styron D.O.B 11/12/1975 Styron Beach Town Road, Oriental Charges: PWISD Cocaine, Misdemeanor Child Abuse, and Possess Drug Paraphernalia Bond: $50,000.00 Secured

Earth Day Neuse And Trent River Cleanup

Earth Day is an annual event celebrated on April 22. Worldwide, various events are held to demonstrate support for environmental protection. If you are scratching your head wondering what to do this Earth

Day join the Lower Neuse Riverkeeper on Saturday, April 22nd (Earth Day) in Craven, Jones and Pamlico Counties and help clean up the Neuse River. The Neuse River Cleanup in New Bern will take place from 9 a.m. to noon at Lawson Creek Park. That is where you can pick up your bags and gloves, then take to the water or land to start your cleanup.

The Trent River Cleanup will take place at the Pollocksville Wildlife Ramp from 9 a.m. until noon. Volunteers are asked to bring a canoe, kayak, paddle board or jonboat along with a PFD. Kayaks and canoes will also be available on a be provided and a limited amount of gloves will be available.

As part of our Lower Neuse Riverkeeper's April Spring Cleanup Event on April 22nd, volunteers have supplied each of the town halls in Pamlico County with DOT issued litter bags. These orange bags are free, and given out specifically for litter collection. Once they are filled, they are to be left on the shoulder of the road for county personnel to collect. Bags are available now, so you don't have to wait until the Earth Day to start your cleanup.

Earth Day was first celebrated in 1970, Earth Day events in more than 193 countries are now coordinated globally by the Earth Day Network. You just may want to join the millions of people across the globe on this Saturday to do at least one thing that will make our planet a better place to live.

High School Juniors Learn About Opportunities Available At PCC

Pamlico County High School juniors learn how to tie a tourniquet, which is necessary when drawing blood from a patient. They are assisted by a Pamlico Community College Medical Assisting student, at left. Contributed

By Sandy Wall, Pamlico Community College More than 50 juniors from Pamlico County High School traveled to Pamlico Community College last Tuesday to see what the college can offer, both while they're in high school and after they graduate. The 11th-graders visited with instructors from nearly a dozen career programs, including Accounting, Business Administration, Cosmetology, Criminal Justice, Early Childhood Education, Electroneurodiagnotic

Technology, Esthetics, Environmental Science Technology, Medical Assisting, Medical Office Administration and Welding. They also heard from PCC Math and Humanities instructors about their courses and university-transfer opportunities.

Perhaps most importantly, the students who participated in PCC's "Junior Day" learned that they are eligible to take college courses – at no cost – while they are in high school, thanks to the N.C. Career & College Promise program. The credits earned by passing the free college courses can help students get ahead.

"Junior Day is funded by our GEAR UP grant in an effort to encourage students to attend college," said Rebecca Pesko, PCC's chair of general studies and a key organizer of the event. "We hope high school juniors at PCHS will consider PCC as a preferred option for their college path. In addition to marketing our career and university-transfer programs, instructors encouraged students to consider Career & College Promise in their senior year, which is a wonderful opportunity."

Participating students were divided into small groups so they could take part in several hands-on activities across campus. For example, students who had their parents' permission were able to try welding.

Over in the Delamar Center, juniors worked on an experiment to collect their own DNA, which they learned was useful in the college's Criminal Justice program.

Cosmetology and Esthetics instructors and students offered the students eyebrow waxing and paraffin treatments, while the Medical Assisting and Medical Office Administration programs highlighted the career opportunities available in health

The groups rotated from station to station, which allowed all of the juniors to see each of the college's featured programs.

"We enjoy having visitors on campus, especially when we can show them all of the great options that are available at Pamlico Community College," said PCC credit by taking our courses free of charge, which is an outstanding opportunity. PCC has been rated as the thirdbest community college in the country, and we are proud to be able to offer high-quality career and universitytransfer programs close to home."

NEW LEASH ON LIFE" Program - Everyone deserves a second chance" PAWS rescues adoptable shelter dogs and pairs them with inmate trainers at the Pamlico Correctional Institution. The inmates learn patience, responsibility and teamwork along with new, marketable skills.

The dogs are vetted, vaccinated and altered, house, crate and leash trained, and receive basic and advanced obedience, agility and rally training. These well-behaved companions graduate every eight weeks, ready to join new, forever families - maybe yours?

Hello I'm Zeta, a chocolate lab cattle dog mix and sweeter dog you won't find. I so truly want to please my family. A medium size girl with a low energy level around 40 lbs and 1 ½ years old. I already will come when you call me, have been good with other large and small dogs, and am very obedient. I'm still trying to figure out cats, so a home without cats or cats that are dog savvy would be best. I also really love children, so hopefully you have some around. I can't wait for you to come to my graduation, so I can show you all the new things I'll have learned.

Hello there I'm Mattie sometimes known as "Mattie Moo" because of my beautiful spots. I'm a 2 year old lab hound mix that is mellow and very low energy. A 65 lb sweet love bug that is good with cats and all dogs large and small. I'm never pushy and I just love people. As a matter of fact I'm so good in the home that I won't get on your furniture or counter surf. Best of all I'm great with children.

All New Leash on Life dogs are fully vetted, altered, heart worm tested, and micro chipped. After they've graduated from the New Leash on Life program they have 8 weeks of crate training, housebreaking, leash experience, with some obedience and agility work. If you're interested in adopting one of our dogs contact Jackie at 252-649-5504 or Penny at 252-249-1453 and fill out an adoption application at Pamlicopaws.net. All adopting families are invited to their dog's graduation the middle of June.

You can also email PAWS at mail.pamlicopaws.net and download an adoption application at pamlicopaws.net on the individual dog's page.

3rd Annual Masters At Minnesott

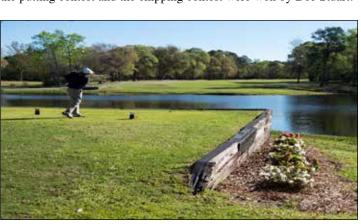

On Saturday, April 8, 2017 Minnesott Golf & Country Club held their 3rd annual Masters at Minnesott Golf Tournament. The weather was great. The turnout was great and everyone enjoyed the day.

The format was stroke play with a twist. Each foursome was paired with a Pro Golfer playing in the Masters at Augusta. The players net scores were compared with the Golf Pro's and the lowest stroke count awarded to the Minnesott player.

In addition a putting contest, a chipping contest (chipping to an island "green" out in the pond by the number one tee), and closest to the pin prizes were awarded. A light lunch was served following play.

The winners in the Men's Division were Ron Scotti (first place), Frankie Martin (second place), and Gene Wills (third place). The winners in the Women's Division were: Donna Rubinstein (first place), Mary Verdier (second place), and Sue Magnuson (third place). Closest to the pin on #5 went to Maija Fink and Gene Wills; on #9 Cheryl Thompson and Gary Dembart; on #12 no lady on the green but Pappy Khouri took the prize for the men; and on #14 again no lady on the green but Ted Tyndall was closest for the men. Both the putting contest and the chipping contest were won by Dee Stuart.

Oriental's History Museum Presents Pre-Civil War Houses

Join us on Sunday, April 30 at 2pm for a slideshow and presentation by Stan Allen, noted author and historian. He wiåll share with us his photos of many of Oriental's and the county's pre-Civil War houses. Allen had the good fortune to grow up in two very different places at the same time, Fayetteville NC (with his parents) and Oriental (with his grandparents). Since the age of 12, when he discovered and fell in love with early NC architecture, he's been studying that topic with a special interest in Pamlico County. He has visited and photographed many of the county's early buildings, and regrettably has also watched many of them slowly or suddenly disappear. A majority were either within the boundaries of present day Oriental or only a few miles away. His presentation will revisit those early structures, by way of photographs, memories, artifacts and outright conjecture.

Oriental's History Museum is located at 802 Broad Street in Oriental. Admission is always free. Hours are: Friday 11-3, Saturday 1-4, Sunday 1-4. If you have any questions about this event please contact us at museum@dockline.net.

One outstanding function of the OWC is to sponsor student scholarships. We provide monetary support for local seniors moving on to their college endeavors.

To raise funds for the scholarships the OWC has fun filled community events. This year the club has planned a delicious Cinco de Mayo dinner (on Friday May 5th). This will be held along with a wine tasting event sponsored by Nautical Wheeler's. Tickets are available at Nautical Wheelers and at First Citizens.

In 2016 we awarded two wonderful young ladies scholarships. Miss Treasure Banks was the winner of the Inez Hargrove Scholarship and Miss Ahanna Garrison was the winner of the Violet and Frank Cathers Scholarship. Miss Garrison was also the OWC candidate for the GFWC-NC Sally Southall Cotten Scholarship, but unfortunately she did not win at the District competition and didn't move on to the state competition.

Pamlico Chorale Concert At The Old Theater

The Pamlico Chorale will be in concerts at the Old Theater on this Friday and Saturday, April 21,7:30 p.m. and April 22, 7:30 p.m. The Pamlico Chorale began in 1989 with twenty people who wanted to sing each week. As the Chorale grew, it moved to the Methodist Church Fellowship Hall for rehearsals on Monday evenings. The Chorale is a non-profit organization that started a scholarship program us. So far, twenty six scholarships have been given. There is no charge for tickets and they can be gotten from any Chorale member, Marsha's Cottage, or Nautical that have supported us for twenty seven years and a special thanks to the singers,

This is the fourth year in a row that the event has sold out, reaching capacity in record time, by the beginning of January. The 2017 participants represent thirty-two different states (AK, AL, AZ, CA, CO, CT, DE, FL, GA, ID, IL, IN, KY, MA, MD, ME, MI, MS, NC, NH, NJ, NY, OH, OR, PA, SC, TN, VA, VT, WA, WI, WV), the District of Columbia and Canada. The CNC Coastal Ride was last hosted in Oriental in 2014, with 1,317 cyclists participating. Oriental also hosted the Coastal Ride in 2011 and 2008.

In all, this will be the fourth time Oriental has hosted the Cycle North Carolina Coastal Ride. The fun-filled weekend will offer three days of cycling and feature some great Coastal Carolina food, music and historical sites. The CNC Coastal Ride will also include many off-the-bike recreational activities in the Oriental area. Canoeing, kayaking, bird watching, historic tours, wine tastings, local art displays and beautiful sunsets will fill time away from the bike and provide a taste of spring in Coastal North Carolina.

The Cycle North Carolina Coastal Ride is a fully supported bicycle event with support vehicles available to aid cyclists who experience physical or mechanical breakdowns. Rest stops will be set up every 10-20 miles along each route for riders to get off their bikes and explore, while quenching their hunger and thirst. Indoor and outdoor camping areas with amenities will be provided at the Oriental Women's Club, at Lou Mac Park and at the participating residential properties along the waterfront. Participants will also fill the hotels, Bed and Breakfast Inns and vacation homes in Oriental. Cycling routes will include attractions such as Minnesott Beach, Aurora Fossil Museum, Bayboro, Arlington Place, River Dunes Harbor Club, Joe Himbry Waterfront Park and Pine Cliff Recreation Area to name a

Evening entertainment will be provided both nights for participants in Oriental. Friday night is the Coastal Ride Bike Swap, allowing participants to buy and sell new and used bicycles and bicycle parts. Saturday night is the official CNC Coastal Ride Dinner where all participants can enjoy a free shrimp, fish and chicken dinner, catch up with friends, and socialize with other cyclists. During the meal, cyclists can enjoy the music of Moore's Creek Bluegrass band. After the meal, they can attend an Oriental Walking Ghost Tour beginning at Lou Mac Park. Dinner, music and beer will set the scene so cyclists can relax and unwind in Oriental's historic downtown.

Keith Bruno's Friends Have Bird Brains

The bird whisperer instructs, "You tell 'em they need to buy a bigger fish."

Those old enough to remember The Marlboro Man are old enough to wonder if Oriental's Keith Bruno wasn't perhaps The Fish Man appearing on packages of Gorton's Fish Sticks. Already the star of stage, screen, and television documentaries on commercial fishing, Bruno has also appeared as Blackbeard the Pirate with a parrot on his shoulder promoting a Putt-Putt golf course in Greenville, the home of East Carolina University's Pirate Nation.

But that's not all. Keith Bruno is also a hold-over from one of Alfred Hitchcock's thrillers. The Birdman of Alcatraz and his birds live at the western end of the intra-state highway 55 bridge in

Though he has never played the role of Jack the Ripper, a favorite story about him was the time a customer picked out a live flounder for purchase. Bruno is known for selling fish in his Endurance Seafood Market so fresh they are still swimming in a holding tank of re-circulating Neuse River water when purchased.

A new client appeared at his dock one day and selected an appropriately sized fish for her family. Keith picked up his dip net and pulled the fish out of the water - with a whole lot more grace than United Airlines removes passengers from airplanes. As the fish was doing the normal gyrations of a fish out of water, Bruno laid it on the cutting board by the sink on the dock, picked up an industrial strength knife, and proceeded to take the necessary steps to generate fresh

That's when the lady shrieked, "Oh, you're going to kill it? I can't stand that." At which time she scurried down the steps, got in her car, and drove away. Fortunately, she screamed before the knife penetrated the scales and a fish's life was spared, more a stay of execution.

But no one accuse Keith Bruno of having bird brains because of Keith and his two sons, Zachary and Benjamin, are part of an aviary managed by family matriarch, Marianne. Customers of their Endurance Seafood market have often remarked that they heard voices while there, but they couldn't figure out who was speaking.

The secret is out. Customers were not dreaming when they heard voices from out of nowhere pontificate about the quality of the seafood. "That's one nice fish." "They are the best looking shrimp that have been caught so far this year." "Look at the size of those soft shelled crabs. One would be a whole meal."

As the late Paul Harvey would say on his radio broadcasts, "And now you know the rest of the story."

"I can fly. Can you talk?"

New Recreational Cobia Regulations Take Effect May 1

Environmental Quality

MOREHEAD CITY - New size and bag limits will go into effect May 1 for the recreational cobia fishery in North Carolina waters.

The minimum size limit will increase to 36 inches fork length (measured from the tip of snout to the fork in the tail). The possession limit will decrease to one fish perperson per-day, with a maximum of four fish per-vessel per-day, if four or more people are on board a vessel.

The N.C. Marine Fisheries Commission voted in February to tighten recreational cobia regulations after the federal government closed federal waters (ocean waters beyond 3 miles from shore) north of the Georgia-Florida line to recreational cobia harvest. The federal closure took effect on Jan. 24 and will remain for the rest of the year.

The federal action was taken to account for overages in the recreational annual catch limit and total annual catch limit of Atlantic migratory group cobia in 2016. Go here more information on the closure in federal waters.

In addition to the regulatory changes, the commission asked anglers to report the length and weight of all cobia harvested in state waters on a catch card, which can be found at official North Carolina Citation Weigh Stations or online here. A list of participating weigh stations can be found here.

The recreational cobia season will close in state waters at 12:01 a.m. Sept. 1. For specific state regulations, see Proclamation FF-13-2017. For more information on the cobia season in state waters or the 2017 Cobia Catch Reporting Program, contact Steve Poland, cobia staff lead with the N.C. Division of Marine Fisheries, at 252-808-8159 or Steve. Poland@ncdenr.gov.

The North Carolina Coastal Federation Earns A 4-star Rating From Charity Navigator

OCEAN — For the third year in a row, the North Carolina Coastal Federation has earned a 4-star rating from Charity Navigator — the highest possible rating.

According to Charity Navigator, only 15 percent of charities receive a 4-star rating three consecutive years. This rating shows the federation's strong financial health and commitment to accountability and transparency.

"We are proud to receive this rating," said Todd Miller, executive director of the federation. "This is just one more sign of our dedication to the coast and to being good stewards of our members' contributions."

Charity Navigator is the largest independent evaluator of nonprofits in the United States. It annually rates nonprofits for their financial health and transparency and accountability.

The federation received a perfect score in the financial category and a 96 in the accountability and transparency category. A full report is available here.

"The North Carolina Coastal Federation's exceptional 4-star rating sets it apart from its peers and demonstrates its trustworthiness to the public," according to Michael Thatcher, President & CEO of Charity Navigator, "Based on its 4-star rating, people can trust their donations are going to a financially responsible and ethical charity."

To celebrate this rating, the federation is raising

$2,500 for 10 coastal cleanups in 2017. Coastal cleanups are part of the organization's goal to decrease marine debris on the North Carolina coast. In 2016, federation staff and volunteers removed more than five-and-a-half tons of debris coastwide.

Marine debris is unsightly and harmful to all kinds of marine life, as well as to humans. The federation partners with communities and other organizations on coastal cleanups throughout the year.

More information on the federation's marine debris efforts is available at nccoast.org/marinedebris. Those who are interested in donating to or volunteering at a

Financial Focus

Dan M. Roberts, IV Financial Advisor

On April 22, we observe Earth Day, a worldwide event focusing on protecting the environment. As a citizen of this planet, you may want to take part in Earth Day activities. And as an investor, you can learn some valuable lessons from the environmental movement

Here are a few ideas to consider:

• "Recycle" proven strategies. Over the past few decades, we have discovered ways of bringing new life to objects we would have previously thrown away. When you invest, you also don't need to discard things you've used before - such as proven investment strategies. For example, one tried-and-true technique is to simply purchase investments appropriate for your needs and risk tolerance, and then hold these investments until either your situation changes or the investments themselves are no longer the same as when you bought them. (To illustrate: You might have bought stock in a company whose products or services are not as competitive as they once were.)

• Avoid "toxic" investment moves. Since the first Earth Day in 1970, we have had some success in identifying and eliminating toxins in our air and water. You can also find - and avoid - "toxic" investment moves. One such move is chasing a "hot" stock. By the time you hear about this stock - from a friend, relative or even a television or internet commentator – it may already be cooling off. Even more importantly, it might not be suitable for your needs, either because it's too risky or because you already own several similar stocks. "Hot" stocks aren't so hot if they aren't right for you.

• Reduce "excess" investments in your portfolio. Environmentalists stress the need for all of us to reduce our "footprint" on earth - that is, we can help improve the environment by owning less "stuff." The same idea can also apply to investing. If you took a close look at your portfolio, you might find investments that you've held for years but whose purpose is no longer clear to you. Some may even be duplicates, or near-duplicates, of other investments. You might be able to improve your financial picture by getting rid of this "clutter." By selling investments you no longer need, you could use the proceeds to purchase new investments that may be far more effective in helping you meet your objectives.

• Plant "seeds" of opportunity. Many Earth Day lesson plans for students emphasize the value of planting gardens and trees. As an investor, you, too, need to look for ways to plant "seeds" of opportunity so that you can eventually harvest the results. Specifically, look for those investments that, like trees, can grow and prosper over years and decades. Of course, growth-oriented investments carry investment risk, including the possible loss of principal. Yet, to achieve your long-term goals, such as a comfortable retirement, you will need some growth potential in your portfolio. You can reduce the level of risk by owning a mix of investments including less aggressive vehicles, such as bonds – in your portfolio.

Each year, Earth Day comes and goes. But its messages have had a profound impact on generations of people interested in preserving our environment. And translating some of these lessons to the investment arena can have a powerful effect on your financial future.

You Decide: Why Did We Move Away From Self-Sufficiency?

Dr. Mike Walden. N.C. Cooperative Extension

We are again involved in a debate about health insurance for those not covered by their employer, Medicare, Medicaid or other group. Many want to replace the Affordable Care Act (commonly known as "Obamacare") that addresses the uninsured, but consensus on a replacement has not been found.

The health care debate includes many elements, among them politics and power. I'm not deriding those elements – they are part of the process. But they sometimes obscure some important fundamental factors that eventually must be considered to have a successful insurance plan.

Among these fundamental factors are the economics of health care and health insurance. There are some key "economic facts of life" that are often overlooked in the health insurance debate because they require us to consider tradeoffs that are sometimes unpleasant.

Let me present examples of how economics is involved in health insurance and then you decide how - or if - they can be addressed.

A basic economic tenet of insurance – including health insurance – is the relationship of the price of the insurance to the individual (usually in the form of a regular insurance payment called a "premium") to the likelihood of the individual filing a claim. For example, if Jerry is a lousy driver with a track record of many accidents, he will certainly pay higher auto insurance premiums than Tiffany who has a perfect driving record with no accidents.

In health insurance a key factor determining the chances of filing a claim is age. On average, younger people are healthier than older people. For example, average annual health care spending for a 65-year old is seven times higher than for a 20-year old, and it's eleven times higher for an 85-year old than a 20-year old. So on this basis alone, we would expect health insurance premiums to be higher for older folks than younger folks.

Private health insurance plans offered by large businesses or organizations handle this reality by making health insurance a benefit of employment and including workers of all ages. So it is also important for any publicly supported health insurance system to have a mix of ages paying into the system. This can be done by requiring everyone to have health insurance - such as most states do for auto insurance.

Obamacare mandates that everyone not insured through their employer or other private or public plan purchase health insurance, but the penalty for not doing so is relatively minor. Hence, many younger people have opted not to participate. One study estimated that for Obamacare to work, 40 percent of enrollees needed to be young people (18-34 age group). But the actual share has only been about 25 percent. The lack of sufficient numbers of younger enrollees is one reason why Obamacare premiums have risen more than expected.

Therefore, any publicly supported health insurance system has to address the age issue of balancing younger and older enrollees. Another equally important fundamental issue is the generosity of the provisions of the health insurance plan.

Less generous policies - covering fewer procedures or care and paying less of the total bill – cost less in terms of the premium, deductible (amount paid by individual before insurance starts) and co-pay (percent of any cost paid by individual). More generous policies cost more.

Therefore, any government sponsored health insurance plan will have to confront this tradeoff between the level of guaranteed coverage and costs. If more generous plans are mandated, then the higher costs must be paid by the individual, the individual's employer or government. There is no free lunch!

For my last fundamental factor, I'll shift gears to the "supply side" of the equation. Most of the discussion of health care and health insurance has focused on expanding coverage to more people. But perhaps equally important is looking at the providers – the suppliers – of health care. If we want to moderate the costs of both health care and health insurance, one way is to expand the supply of health care services.

This hasn't always been happening. For example, the number of medical doctors per person in the country has been falling for three decades.

So what can be done to increase the supply of health care services? There are many possibilities. The government can work to increase the number of students entering medical school. The government could look at easing the ability of foreign-trained doctors to practice in the country. There are also debates about expanding the care and treatments performed by medical professionals who are not MDs, such as physician assistants.

In terms of other parts of the medical supply, many states – including North Carolina - have legal restrictions on expanding medical facilities and equipment. Some recommend adjusting or eliminating these restrictions. At the federal level, there have been calls to speed the FDA's (Federal Drug Administration) approval of new pharmaceuticals as well as shorten the time that new drugs can be offered in lower-priced generic

However, at the heart of the debate about expanding supply are concerns about maintaining both the quality and safety of health care. It's a difficult balance.

There are many issues – with no easy answers – in the debate over health insurance. Maybe this is why, collectively, we are having difficulty

Progress Towards Victims' Rights

Robert F. Orr, Former NC Supreme Court Justice

By Robert F. Orr, former NC Supreme Court Justice For the first time in 20 years, North Carolina has taken an important step to strengthen victims' rights on behalf of crime victims and their families. A bipartisan victims' rights bill, also known as Marsy's Law, was introduced in the state Legislature to begin the process of amending our state constitution on behalf of victims of crime.

I have spent my career in North Carolina's legal community - as an adjunct professor, a lawyer for over 40 years - and on the other side as a judge for 18 years. It's fair to say I have seen a lot, both from the court's perspective as well as representing victims of crime. There is nothing more powerful and humbling than being part of the justice system and helping a victim or his or her family through the complex process. Many of us are fortunate enough not to have suffered first-hand as a victim of crime, and therefore do not fully appreciate the scope and complexity of the court system, the fear and frustration often involved in the process and the value of victims' rights. But for our friends and neighbors in North Carolina who have been victimized, there is no issue more important facing

And yet currently in North Carolina victims have limited rights in our state constitution. Though there is some language for victims included, it does not go far enough and is not consistently applied from county to county and regionally. In a state like North Carolina with large and diverse counties, it often means victims' rights aren't fully enforced depending on where you live. We have a need - and arguably a moral duty - to adopt language with specific, uniform and enforceable rights that are applied equally regardless of county or region. Adding stronger language in the constitution will mean that victims receive the same rights that are already given to the accused and convicted, merely granting equal footing to victims in the eyes of North Carolina law. It seems like common sense that crime victims - at a minimum - have the same rights as those who are accused and convicted, but that is not the case.

Marsy's Law for All is a national campaign to strengthen victims' rights in states like North Carolina that do not have protective language in the constitution. The law is named after Marsalee "Marsy" Nicholas, who was murdered by her ex-boyfriend in 1983. Without any notification, her family encountered her accused murderer in public shortly after her death, having no idea he had been released on bond. Her family made it their mission to make sure this type of situation would not happen to other families, and founded Marsy's Law, which helped pass groundbreaking victims' rights protections in California in 2008 followed by Illinois, Nevada, the Dakotas

The campaign is active in nine additional states, including North Carolina, around the country seeking to amend state constitutions that don't currently offer equal protections to victims of crime.

Marsy's Law does not negatively impact the rights of the accused or convicted. It simply elevates victims to the same level. Establishing "co-equal" rights in the state constitution is the goal of the North Carolina effort.

Amending the state constitution is not something to be taken lightly, which is why it is appropriately hard to do and doesn't happen often. The two-step process first has to pass the state Legislature by a 3/5 vote in both chambers to be sent to all voters during a statewide election. Marsy's Law is a unique issue that does not hit a partisan tone, and is supported by elected officials on both sides of the political spectrum.

The good news is that most DA offices, county clerks and judges already do many of the things proposed in Marsy's Law including victim participation in the court process, allowing victim input prior to plea agreements and, most importantly, notifying victims and their families regarding court dates and changes in custody of the accused. But what makes this amendment critical is the guarantee by law that all victims receive these steps, ensuring dignity and limiting the ongoing suffering they are already experiencing as victims of crime. It is the guarantee - by constitutional law - that these rights are delivered to victims.

Imagine the poignant image of a scale when considering the justice system - the goal is always to maintain a balance in those scales. Yet today, North Carolina's most vulnerable citizens, victims of crime, are not guaranteed such a constitutional balance because they are not on equal footing as the accused from the start. House Bill 551 cannot right the wrongs against these victims, but it can go a long way in making sure they are treated with the dignity and respect they deserve while seeking justice.

It has been a pleasure meeting and socializing with you all and knowing you as friends. As I embark on my new adventure, returning to my roots in Massachusetts, I will always cherish the bonds and memories that we have shared, especially those from classes and volunteering at the Senior Center. I am not a politician. I am involved with the library because I love to read, and because I believe that a public library is an essential ingredient in the life of a community. The children's room that has been vacated has served as the focal point for reading programs and other activities which, in my opinion, are at least as important to the youth of Pamlico County as whatever conceivable use to which the high school may put the space.

I am continually amazed at how much Kat Clowers, Fran Benninger, and their colleagues are able to accomplish with the limited resources with which they have been provided. Even in the midst of the current turmoil, their always positive attitude remains intact. They deserve our admiration, gratitude and respect.

By the time you read this, Easter 2017 will be well underway. We were blessed to have our daughter, Joannis, and grandson. Zachary Rodgers and his wife Megan visit with us in Pamlico for reading followed by everyone making an Easter Craft. Eggs were hunted by age groups, ending with the adults hunting for their Easter eggs. After the egg hunt everyone returned to the sanctuary to be awarded prizes before enjoying a fun fellowship cook-out. This was an awesome community event involving church members and visitors. Thanks are extended to all who helped make this a success and to the neighbors who allowed us to hide eggs in their yards.

On Saturday, Vandemere UMC held their famous Easter Egg Hunt for children and adults. The festivities began with prayer and an Easter

I was honored to preach the "Sonrise" Service for Vandemere UMC this year. Craig Cooper sang a beautiful song at the Sonrise service; he also sang at the regular worship service after everyone enjoyed a simply delicious breakfast prepared by the members of the church. During the regular worship service, two individuals transferred their membership to Vandemere UMC. It was a blessed event for the church family.

There were many sunrise services in Pamlico County and I saw some beautiful pictures of them on Facebook. I pray everyone enjoyed special time with their family after attending the worship service of their choice.

I was blessed to be invited by Elaine Creel to participate in a Seder at St. Thomas Episcopal Church on Maundy Thursday. Father Jeremiah Day led the meaningful meal that was wonderfully prepared by his lovely wife. After the meal, Father Day led a traditional Maundy Thursday Service with the Holy Week liturgy in the St. Thomas sanctuary.

Other churches in the area also had Maundy Thursday Services remembering the night before Jesus' crucifixion when he washed the disciple's feet and shared The Last Supper with them. Aurora UMC had a combined Maundy Thursday/Good Friday service, and Stonewall UMC had a Good Friday service on Friday that commemorated the last words of Christ.

The Pamlico Chorale Spring Concerts will be this week on April 21 and 22 at the Old Theater. Tickets are required for the event because of limited seating. You can see members of the Chorale for free tick-

On Saturday May 6, the Pamlico Partnership for Children will sponsor the Pamlico Community Family Fun Day at the Track/Field area of Pamlico County High School from 10:00 - noon. evening, I can forget all the negative things that happened this week, because the beautiful day has overshadowed all darkness! Hope everyone hymns such as "Christ the Lord is Risen Today!" Adrian and Debbie Whorton's girls, Audra and children. Brad and Diane were in church but still fighting the flu that hit them. Some of our neighbors sailed to they come back. Deb, Cooper, and Nancy Dickinson were also in church. The sound of children in church is so wonderful these day, especially here because we don't have many children in our area. Elizabeth, James, and Mattie Cuthrell, also Joan Ford came over on Friday night and Elizabeth made a huge shrimp stir fry. The event of the evening was when little Mattie pulled up a large puppy drum while fishing on our dock. Tuesday is tax day but thank goodness Middle School will be in Atlanta this weekend for competition. We wish them the very best! Attended the Maundy Thursday service at St. Thomas and was blessed to play for Jim Moore and Judy Wickersham to sing for the service. Big wedding this weekend and some of my friends are coming in. It will be so good to see Jay and Gayle Fohner and Bill and Dee Sage. This is also the weekend for the Boat Show. It is always busy in this county. Visited the Rose Garden last week and after the shock, when Vernon said "no cavities" I picked myself up from the floor and made a fast exit! While Florence cleaned my teeth we talked about her sister Emily and her mother Louise, who were two of the sweetest ladies I have ever known. Don't forget the Pamlico Chorale concerts this coming Friday and Saturday evenings at 7:30 in the Old Theater. If you don't get your tickets in advance from Marsha's Cottage, Nautical Wheelers, or from a Chorus member, there may be some at the box office each night. Like the airlines learned last week, the theater will not let us overbook! Thought for the week --When you're down and out, lift up your head and shout, there's going to be a great day!

Goose Creek Island

Goose Creek Island 55 Plus Club met Thursday at the Community Center. Special guest speaker was Sam Loveall, Minister at Lowland Church of Christ. His father was a preacher and the family lived in several different states. He studied to be a singer and graduated from Roanoke Bible College. Sam brought along his guitar and played and sang several humorous "church" songs. One of the favorites was "Sunday School Pins," which brought back many memories. We enjoyed his quick wit and way with words and was pleased to hear that he will deliver the Sunday Worship Service message at Homecoming! Joan Rowe is guest speaker next week.

After the meeting we drove to Oriental and enjoyed our Easter luncheon at Brantley's Restaurant. We were delighted to have Sue Gaskins Ireland join us. Sue and Jackie lived in Lowland for many years.

The Rummikub ladies came back to the building and played several games. The New Vision PH Church ladies finished delivering the lovely Easter Eggs that they make every year. It was a good day

Sweet Potato Croquettes

- 4 large sweet potatoes
- 1 cup coarsely chopped pecans
- 1 cup cornflakes
- 1 heaping tablespoon flour 1/2 cup sugar (or to taste)

Boil the potatoes until thoroughly done. Drain, peel and mash until smooth. Add the remaining ingredients and mix well shape into croquettes and roll in additional coarse cornflake crumbs. Place in refrigerator to set. Fry in deep hot vegetable oil - drain. Serves 8.

NOTE: These amounts are approximate because this is one of those recipes that has been used and reused for many, many years and made by taste. If desired, sweet potato mixture may be molded around a marshmallow and then proceed as above. At any rate, these croquettes are always a big hit.

Bake in well greased muffin pans, filling about 1/3 full in 375 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 24.

(StatePoint) Allergy symptoms can lead to a major disruption in quality of life. And unfortunately, they affect a lot of people. Nearly 60 million Americans suffer from allergic rhinitis (also commonly known as hay fever), according to the American College of Allergy Asthma and Immunology. Luckily, many allergy sufferers are interested in learning more about what causes their allergies and how they can manage them. In fact, 70 percent of allergy sufferers say they wish they had a better understanding of the science behind their allergies, according to a recent survey of over 1,000 allergy sufferers in the US, which was sponsored by Sanofi Consumer Healthcare and conducted online using Toluna's QuickSurveys methodology. With that in mind, Sanofi is sharing some helpful information and tips for allergy sufferers to keep in mind this season.

• Know Your Triggers: Determine what allergens or "triggers" cause your symptoms, whether it's pollen, pet dander, etc. While you may already have some idea of what triggers your symptoms, an allergist can give you a comprehensive checkup for a proper diagnosis.

• Avoid Exposure: If pollen is one of your triggers, check the pollen count before planning that picnic. If it's your furry friend giving you grief, spend some time vacuuming your rugs and furniture. Once you know your triggers, take steps to avoid or minimize them whenever possible.

• Learn the Science behind Your Symptoms: When an allergy sufferer comes into contact with certain allergens, their body produces a variety of chemical responses that cause those symptoms that can make them feel miserable. According to the recent survey of allergy sufferers, more than half of them said histamine is the only chemical response to allergens that they are familiar with, but there are actually several -- including leukotrienes, cytokines, prostaglandins and eosinophils. To relieve allergy symptoms, it's important to stop these chemical reactions from taking place.

• Visit the Allergy Aisle: Several prescription strength treatment options are available over-thecounter for the relief of allergy symptoms. For example, Nasacort is a scent- and alcohol-free nasal spray that provides 24-hour relief of nasal allergy symptoms like sneezing, itchy runny nose and congestion for adults and children two years of age and older. It does this by stopping the body's chemical responses to allergens and reducing inflammation in the nasal passages. To learn more and download a coupon, visit Nasacort. com.

This season, be proactive about your allergies. Educate yourself about your triggers and make sure you have an effective treatment on hand to provide symptom relief.

PAMLICO COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

To engage students while reading Shakespeare's Othello, English teacher Mrs. Gorton asks her students to draw the puppets and move them against a backdrop picture that represents the setting of the play. This scene is from Othello, Act 2, scene 1. Montano is speaking to the Gentleman about the state of the Turkish fleet after the storm that has hit Cyprus. One thing that Mrs. Gorton finds interesting is how the students' drawings of the characters' facial expressions change as the suspense mounts in the play.

Every county has some thing or some place that seems to be somewhat of a hidden gem. Most definitely, Gary's Down East Seafood & Oyster Bar is just that for Pamlico County. Nestled in the most unlikely place on Highway 306 South in Arapahoe, Gary Hardison has served fresh seafood to the area for 32 years.

Opening in 1985 under the name, Granny's, just a couple minutes down the road from his current location, Hardison's fast success quickly turned into an expansion. The result, Gary's Down East Seafood, with an oyster bar being added in 2005. When asked where he got the first name, Granny's, Hardison answered with a chuckle, "Because I had four granny's working for me".

Inside of the restaurant, the atmosphere is very friendly, quite modest, and very quiet. We were greeted by Gary's restaurant manager, Amber Bailey Smith, who is one of the kindest staff members and has been with the business for 13 years. Ushered to the back, into a more private area of the restaurant within minutes there are golden hush puppies and two bowls of soup on the table. The soups, suggested by Smith, were clam chowder and she crab. Let me tell you, it is still up for debate which was the best. They did not disappoint and were the perfect appetizers to what would come next.

The cook put together the finest variety dish which featured several of the most popular items on the menu. Grilled shrimp, sautéed scallops, seared asparagus with cheese, and homemade lump crab cake, which made up the main course. The meal was topped off with a baked sweet potato brushed with butter and cinnamon. Now if you have ever dreamed of anything as fulfilling you can surely make it a reality by stopping by Gary's.

Smith assured us that there are many county natives that have never experienced a Gary's meal and still those who, GET THIS, never knew there was a restaurant of this type in the area. Another cool fact we learned is that Hardison only shops local for his ingredients. Everything from the seafood down to the seasoning put on the food is purchased right here in Pamlico County.
