38th Croaker Festival Honored Area Camps

This year's Croaker Festival was better than ever! From the lovely ladies of all ages who competed for the titles of Miss Croaker Queen and Miss Minnow, to a rousing parade honoring the variety of camps in Pamlico County, to the live entertainment that had everyone tapping their feet, to the kids' activities (weren't those kid karaoke singers adorable?), to the tasty treats served with a backdrop of sailboats enjoying a perfect, though hot day. Even the guys who drove the "Garbology" cart around, making sure that the festival grounds were neat and tidy all had smiles on their faces! Congrats to all who worked tirelessly. The 2018 festival was definitely a grand success story. See page 10 for Croaker Festival Pageant results and more photos.

PCC Offers STEM-focused Day Camp for Middle School Students

By Sandy Wall, Pamlico Community College
Twenty Pamlico County middle schoolers recently spent a week learning about science-related subjects and having a great time.

The students took part in Pamlico Community College's first "Under the Sea" STEM Adventure Day Camp.

The four-day event, which was funded by a $4,000 grant from Duke Energy, included field trips and in-class activities designed to stimulate students' interest in science, technology, engineering and math.

"We've had a good time, and we've had a good group," said PCC Instructor Derek Godwin, who organized the day camp. "We really wanted to enrich the lives of Pamlico County middle school students and create interest in STEM-related courses and careers. Thanks to Duke Energy, we were able to offer a free day camp with a lot of fun hands-on activities."

The day camp was based at the college's Bayboro Center, but most of the activities took place away from it.

On Monday, the group visited Sand Dollar Island in Carteret County to explore the ecosystem there. Tuesday's activity was a daylong trip to the N.C. Aquarium at Pine Knoll Shores, where students got a behind-the-scenes tour and a chance to see how the facility's staff members care for fish and wildlife.

Also Tuesday, the group collected clams and crabs in an area of the sound.

A trip to the Aurora Fossil Museum and an afternoon classroom activity coordinated by the N.C. BioNetwork headlined Wednesday's activities, ties, while Thursday's highlight was a trip to East Carolina University to see artifacts from the shipwreck of the Queen Anne's Revenge.

PCC President Dr. Jim Ross said he was pleased that the day camp was a success.

"We were happy to be able to host this exciting week of activities to local middle school students," he said. "We are extremely grateful for the generous support of Duke Energy, which enabled the college to offer this camp without cost to parents. I know everyone involved has enjoyed a very busy week."

The 20 participating students came from Pamlico County Middle School and the Arapahoe Charter School.

PCC student Aaron Royal, who recently returned from a month-long college-sanctioned Study Abroad trip to the Philippines, assisted with the camp. Also helping were Szonja Nemes, a rising freshman at Western Carolina University, plus teacher Elizabeth Harwick, teacher assistant/bus driver Kimberly Whitfield and parent-chaperone LoriAnn Dunn.

Godwin plans to seek grant funding for a similar STEM day camp next year.

Scott Fire Not a Total Loss

The fire at Scott's Heating and Plumbing in Reelsboro last Friday was put out quickly and the cause is now under investigation. Nine fire departments from Pamlico County and two from Craven County responded. Fortunately, the building has a firewall between its showroom and warehouse so most of the damage was contained in the showroom. People inside the building were able to exit safely.

Owner Lisa Scott would like the public to know that Scott's is open for business as usual. Customers can call the main number at 252-745-5135. The business is in the process of relocating to 6814 Highway 55 E in Reelsboro.

New "Leash" on Life Grads Get Forever Families

Pamlico Animal Welfare Society celebrated the 6th Anniversary of the New Leash on Life Program at Pamlico Correctional Institution on June 27. Our NLOL doggies showed off their basic obedience skills.

Alecia Williams, who teaches our trainers, explains: "Our NLOL dogs spend a few days bonding with their trainers before beginning their basic obedience training. Beginning with 'Focus' (look at me), commands are taught in a specific order. The dog's obedience training is geared towards his earning his AKC Canine Good Citizen certificate by graduation time. Our dogs will also learn socialization skills by a patient and caring trainer. By the time our dogs are adopted, they will be an interactive member of the family. Our goal for the inmates is to prepare them as fully as possible for reentry into society. The trainers will have the opportunity to earn their state training certification from the NC Department of Labor. This may take approximately 2 years and 4000 hours in the NLOL program. Dogs learn socialization skills and become an interactive member of their forever families."

PAWS is in need of foster families. If you would like to foster one of our NLOL dogs before they enter into the NLOL program, please call Jackie Schmidt at 252-649-5504.

What if New Bern Had Been Confederate?

Jim White at the Heritage Center

Jim White of New Bern is well-known in these parts for his Civil War expertise, his numerous books and articles on history and genealogy, his talks at various venues, and for his latest book New Bern and the Civil War.

As a former educational administrator and history teacher, Jim made the description of the four battles of New Bern both easy to understand and interesting by inviting audience interaction and sharing his personal observations about the generals and captains involved. His talk was entitled "Confederate Attempts to Retake New Bern," and a full house at the Heritage Center was fully engaged with questions after the program. Jim began by explaining that there were four Civil War battles during which the Confederacy attempted to retake New Bern from federal troops, and lost on all four occasions. The interesting part for me was that the strategies proposed by Jefferson Davis and Robert E. Lee were strategically sound, but for some very unusual circumstances, the Confederate troops came up just short of victory. For example, when President Lincoln assigned Union Major General Burnside to the forts of New Bern that were under federal control, he subsequently reassigned Burnside to The Army of the Potomac, which made it necessary for Burnside to leave New Bern and the federal troops to their own devices. One would think that this was the ideal time for the Confederacy to strike, and several Confederate generals did just that. Poised to take Fort Anderson, General Pettigrew demanded surrender, but the Captain in charge refused. When a federal gunboat came up the river, Pettigrew retreated to Kinston, even though his force outnumbered the Union at the fort.

Again at Deep Gully, the Confederates were pushed back to Rocky Run, and retreated with the arrival of Union reinforcements. In 1864, the New Bern Union troops were demoralized with no action for a year and a half, and their troop numbers were reduced from 15,000 to 5,400. With a bold plan to engage from all sides of New Bern, four Confederate generals (Hoke, Barton, Dearing, and Wood) under George Pickett (of Gettysburg fame) were to converge simultaneously. Once again, when an ultimatum was given for surrender, the federal troops refused, even though the Confederates outnumbered the Union. The Confederates withdrew, thus foiling the plan of coordinated attacks from all directions.

During the fourth New Bern engagement, a major Confederate gunboat, the CSS Neuse, was grounded on a sandbar, (and not recovered until decades later) and the CSS Albermarle came under fire from five federal gunboats, crippling it to the point where the crew couldn't build enough steam to return to Plymouth. A slab of bacon to the rescue. This last is an example of the interesting details of Jim's presentation. Time and again, New Bern proved to be elusive for the Confederacy. Just when the Confederates outnumbered their foe, generals said "all I needed was one more day" or "almost." Almost, but not quite made the New Bern campaign a miserable failure for Jefferson Davis.

It causes us to wonder "What if?" What if the Confederates had succeeded at recapturing New Bern from the federal troops? How would life in this part of the country be different today? We'll never know, but it's certainly an interesting speculation.

Pamlico County Chamber Update

By Paul Slobodian, President of the Pamlico Chamber Board

Membership Drive:

I am pleased to report that membership is up 38% for the first five months of 2018 compared to the same time in 2017! We significantly increased the Chamber presence on line and in newsprint and used our media connections to provide Member organization profiles as well as to publicize Member special events. Please contact our Executive Director, Joyce Swimm (252-745-3008), to take advantage of our services to publicize and promote your organization. Note: first come first served.

Chamber Myth #1:

Many people assume that the Pamlico Chamber is part of the US Chamber of Commerce. That is not true. We do not follow policy set by the US Chamber, and we pay no fees of any kind to the US Chamber. Our sole focus is supporting the growth and prosperity of Pamlico County organizations.

Chamber Myth #2:

Many also think the Pamlico Chamber only supports for-profit businesses. Not true. We have dozens of non-profit members. The word "commerce" is usually associated with trade or exchange for money. We chose a broader definition: any interaction or involvement of a citizen with an organization, for a product or service, including arts, education, health or community improvement. We are blessed in Pamlico County with dozens of vibrant and active non-profit organizations, and we are proud to support their activities!

And our non-profit membership rates are exceptionally low.

Quarterly Membership Meeting:

On June 19th at 5:30p.m. the Chamber hosted our quarterly General Membership Meeting including an opportunity for conversation and networking. Our featured presentation was by local business owner Todd Willis of Neuse River Bait and Tackle. Todd provided an engaging presentation with props that included fishing gear and even fresh bait. He disclosed several valuable tips on how and where to catch fish as well as sharing his tips on his impressive use of free (or mostly free) social media sites to build his business - for example boosting likes and followers from a few hundred to a few thousand! Thank you, Todd Willis, and don't forget to stop in at Neuse River Bait and Tackle (Hwy 55, Alliance. Phone:252-745-0708) for some bait, gear and free advice.

Todd Willis, Neuse River Bait & Tackle

New memberships ½ price!

Now that 2018 is nearly half over, the Chamber is offering new memberships at ½ price. See our Socially Civic ad in the Pamlico News for more details.

Sponsor Appreciation:

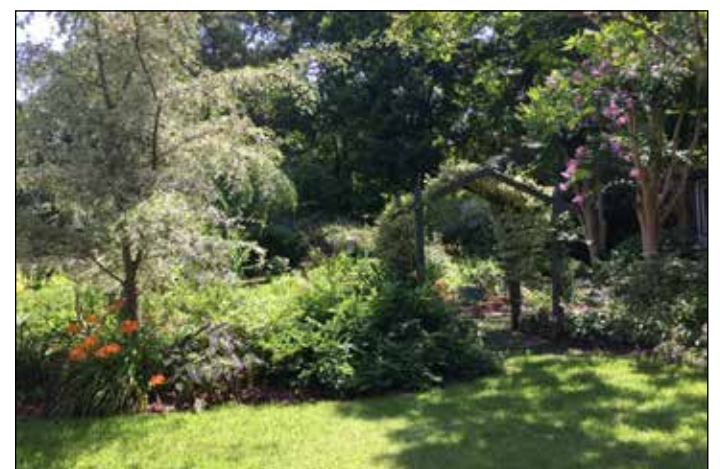

A special thank you to our sponsors Carolina East Health Care, Deaton Yacht Service and Tideland EMC.

Let's continue to work together for a prosperous and growing Pamlico County!

(From L to R) Cameraman and Editor Kenneth Roundtree, Morning Anchor Maria Satira and Community Garden Volunteer Denise Bonner discuss the revival of Aurora's Community Garden. The segment, part of a larger story on Aurora, will air on the evening edition on 7/17 on WNCT.

The Garden Club of the Oriental Woman's Club has selected the home of Linda Johnson, 1697 Kershaw Road to receive its July Yard of the Month award. Exhibiting a variety of native and exotic plants, Linda has placed her plant collections in the right sunny or shady spots to allow her plants to thrive. She has a true pass-along Garden that includes plants given to her by friends, and she passes along cuttings as her plants mature. Linda, although not a botanist by training, has developed a botanist's knowledge of her Garden. Complete with a greenhouse, her garden provides a year-round place of beauty and serenity.

Village Gallery Welcomes New Artist

The Village Gallery welcomes painter Heather Sink as its guest artist for the month of July. A reception will be held on the SECOND Saturday of July from 2:00 till 5:00 p.m. at the Gallery located at 300 Hodges Street in Oriental. The artist will be in attendance.

Heather, a native of Britain, feels fortunate to end up in the coastal town of Beaufort with her husband. After teaching art to students in the North Carolina public schools for many years and raising two children, she decided to focus on her own art work.

Heather belonged to two Plein Air groups in England and has continued to paint her surroundings in the many places she has lived. Fortunately, the coastal light and area offer an abundance of subject matter to paint. She loves learning and takes workshops from artists that inspire her. For the past two years she has taught Plein Air workshops in San Miguel de Allende, Mexico, Montorno, Italy and the Lake District in England.

Heather loves to teach and work with other artists. She has opened her own studio where she can paint, teach and invite other visiting artists. Her desire to create and connect with the community has made Craving Art Studio, Beaufort a wonderful studio to work and share her love of art with others.

The Village Gallery is a cooperative Gallery of member and consigned artists. For more information, visit or call 252-249-0300 at the Gallery during normal hours of 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Wednesdays through Sundays, call Judy Wayland at 252-249-1505, or visit the Gallery website at villagegallerync.com.

A Sea of 50,000 Sunflowers

Raised in a Barn Farm at 2100 Rt. 33 E in Chocowinity plants 50,000 sunflowers in tiers, so that they bloom continuously throughout the summer. The sight of the first crop this past weekend at the annual North Carolina Sunflower Festival formed a colorful backdrop for photo opportunities by thousands of festival-goers. Staff members were busy cutting the best blooms for patrons to buy, and for the rest of the summer, the store at the farm will allow customers to cut their own fresh flowers, along with a cornucopia of fresh local produce.

The festival on Saturday and Sunday featured live music, vendors, kids' activities, a visit from Mrs. North Carolina, and my favorite – the 4H Rabbit Show, with the most adorable youngsters and their carefully-groomed rabbits. It's difficult not to be impressed with fields of sunflowers, even when they're still green and not fully open. The sheer volume of blooms is impressive.

Raised in a Barn Farm is a fabulous venue year-round for family reunions, gatherings, and their specialty, weddings. There are events happening throughout the year, including horse camps, 4H shows, their renowned "Nights of Fright" around Halloween, and time with Santa at Christmas. In a story we wrote recently, we provided the wrong telephone number for Raised in a Barn Farm, so here's the correct number: 252-745-3398, but you can find all kinds of reviews on-line. When you visit, tell Mandie you saw it in The Pamlico News!

“Cold” Is Good This Time Of Year. . .

SHRIMP MOLD

2 cups cleaned, cooked and chopped shrimp
1 cup finely chopped celery
1 can tomato soup, undiluted
1/2 cup onions, finely chopped
1 cup mayonnaise
1 package (8-oz.) cream cheese, softened
1/4 teaspoon salt
Lemon juice to taste
2 envelopes plain gelatin

COLD AVOCADO SOUP

1 large avocado
1 wedge of onion
1 cup heavy cream
1 teaspoon instant chicken broth or 1 chicken bouillon cube
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 or 4 drops hot sauce
2 cups milk

Peel the avocado and remove seed. Place avocado, onion and 1/2 cup of the cream in blender and process until smooth. Place avocado mixture into a bowl and beat in remaining 1/2 cup cream. Dissolve instant chicken broth or bouillon cube in a bit of the milk and then add to mixture. Add remaining ingredients and blend well. Chill in covered container before serving. Serves 4.

COLD CUCUMBER & SEAFOOD SOUP

3 medium cucumbers, peeled, seeded and chopped
1/4 teaspoon hot sauce
1/2 teaspoon onion juice
4 cups buttermilk
2 cups sour cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon white or black pepper
1/2 cup cooked shrimp, diced
1/2 cup lump crabmeat, flaked

CAROLINA SEAFOOD SALAD

1 cup ripe olives, chopped (reserving 1/4 cup)
1 cup tomato juice
1 tablespoon grated onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon celery seed
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 cup cooked, chopped shrimp or lump crabmeat

Dissolve the gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water. Blend the cream cheese and mayonnaise together until thoroughly mixed. In a saucepan, heat the soup and then stir in the gelatin/water mixture and stir until dissolved. Add the cream cheese/mayonnaise mixture to the hot soup mixture and blend well - let cool. When mixture has cooled, add the shrimp, celery, onions, salt and lemon juice. Pour into oiled mold and chill until congealed. Serve on bed of lettuce and place a bowl of mayonnaise to the side to pass to guests.

Heat the tomato juice, onions and seasonings in a saucepan for about 5 minutes. Soften the gelatin in cold water and then add to the hot tomato mixture and stir until all the gelatin has completely dissolved. In a bowl, add the mixture, cover and chill until mixture looks like pudding but do not let it congeal. Stir in 3/4 cup of the chopped olives and then pour into a greased mold. Return to refrigerator to congeal. When ready to serve, unmold on lettuce and surround with the shrimp or crabmeat and garnish with the reserved olives.

This is one of my favorites!

CUCUMBER MOUSSE
This is fabulous!

4 medium potatoes, peeled and cubed
3 cups boiling water
5 chicken bouillon cubes
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
5 leeks, minced fine with about 3 inches of the green tops or
1-1/2 cups minced green onions
1 cup heavy cream
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon paprika

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
1/4 cup vinegar
2/3 cup mayonnaise
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 cups grated cucumbers, well drained
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

In a large saucepan add the water, potatoes, bouillon cubes and leeks or green onions, cover and cook until potatoes are very tender - about 30 minutes. Place mixture in a blender and process until very smooth. Pour into a saucepan, add the cream, milk, salt and pepper and blend well. Let cool and store in the refrigerator in covered container until cold. When ready to serve, garnish with paprika. If desired, top the soup with buttered and toasted bread cubes.

In a saucepan, soften gelatin in water and vinegar and cook and stir over low heat until dissolved. Remove from heat and cool. Gradually add the gelatin mixture to the mayonnaise, salt and pepper and blend well. Chill until partially set (takes only a short while), remove from refrigerator and fold in the cucumbers, whipped cream and onions. Pour mixture into a 5-cup mold and chill until firm. Unmold on a bed of crisp lettuce and garnish with a bit of fresh parsley when ready to serve.

COLD POTATO SALAD

2 pounds red potatoes, boiled, peeled and cubed
1 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 small garlic clove, minced
1 onion, finely chopped
2 tablespoons fresh chopped dill

DILLED SPINACH SOUP

9 cups spinach, well rinsed and drained
2 cups milk
1 small onion, chopped
2 tablespoons snipped fresh dill
1 teaspoon lemon-pepper seasoning
2 cartons (8-oz. each) plain yogurt (regular or fat-free)
1 cup chicken or shrimp, cooked and cubed
Toasted slivered almonds (optional)

In a large bowl, combine the mayonnaise with the cream and add the vinegar, sugar, salt, minced garlic and finely chopped onions and blend. Add the potatoes and toss to coat potatoes with the mayonnaise mixture. Cover and refrigerate until ready to serve. When serving, place on bed of lettuce and sprinkle with the fresh chopped dill. Serves 4.

In a blender or food processor, combine about 1/3 of the spinach, 1 cup of the milk, the onions, dill and lemon-pepper seasoning. Cover and process until almost smooth. Add another 1/3 of the spinach, cover and blend until smooth. Pour blended mixture into a serving bowl or large storage container. In the blender container, combine the remaining spinach, remaining milk and the yogurt, cover and blend until nearly smooth. Stir into the mixture in the bowl and then stir in the chicken or shrimp. Serve immediately or cover and chill in refrigerator. When ready to serve, sprinkle the toasted slivered almonds on top. Serves 4.

Financial Focus: Questions to Ask Your Financial Advisor

Dan M. Roberts, IV
Financial Advisor

You should always be able to ask as many questions as you'd like when working with your financial advisor. So, before you have your annual review, think carefully about what you'd like to ask. Here are a few suggestions:

- Are my goals still realistic? When you first began working with your financial advisor, you may well have articulated a number of financial goals. For example, you might have said that you wanted to pay for most of your children's college educations, or that you wanted to retire at a certain age, or that you wanted to travel for two months each year during your retirement. In fact, you could have many different goals for which you're saving and investing. When you meet with your financial advisor, you'll certainly want to ask if you're still on track toward meeting these goals. If you are, you can continue with the financial strategies you've been following; but if you aren't, you may need to adjust them.

- Am I taking on too much – or too little – risk? The financial markets always fluctuate, and these movements will affect the value of your investment portfolio. If you watch the markets closely every day and track their impact on your investments, you may find yourself fretting considerably over your investments' value and wondering if you are taking on too much investment risk for your comfort level. Conversely, if you think that during an extended period of market gains your own portfolio appears to be lagging, you might feel that you should be investing more aggressively, which entails greater risk. In any case, it's important that you know your own risk tolerance and use it as a guideline for making investment choices – so it's definitely an issue to discuss with your financial advisor.

- How will changes in my life affect my investment strategy? Your life is not static. Over time, you may experience any number of major events, such as marriage, children, new jobs and so on. When you meet with your financial advisor, you will want to discuss these types of changes, because they can affect your long-term goals and, consequently, your investment decisions.

- How are external forces affecting my investment portfolio? Generally speaking, you will want to create an investment strategy that's based on your goals, risk tolerance and time horizon. And, as mentioned above, you may need to adjust your strategy based on changes in your life. But should you also make changes based on outside forces, such as interest rate movements, political events, new legislation or news affecting industries in which you have invested substantially? Try not to make long-term investment decisions based on short-term news. Yet, talk with your financial advisor to make sure your investment portfolio is not out of alignment with relevant external factors.

By making these and other inquiries, you can help yourself stay informed on your overall investment picture and what moves, if any, you should make to keep advancing toward your goals. A financial advisor is there to provide you with valuable expertise – so take full advantage of it.

Patriots Sought Independence and Freedom

John Hood,
John Locke Foundation

As we once again commemorate the formal birth of the United States, it's important to think about what makes America exceptional – what makes it, despite evident flaws, so worthy of our loyalty and affection.

American exceptionalism isn't about our country's vast expanse and bounty of resources. Nor do we venerate the Founding as if the American people possessed superior virtues or talents.

While England was the most common origin of America's progenitors, by 1776 there were sizable populations of people with Scottish, Irish, Dutch, French, German, Scandinavian, Spanish, aboriginal, and African ancestry. Indeed, while New England was much less diverse, in the Middle and Southern colonies people with primarily English ancestry comprised only about 40 percent of the population at the time of the Revolutionary War.

What led to that war – and what sustained the American cause through its duration – was a commitment to traditions and ideas that arose in a specific historical context but had the potential for broad, even universal, application. Two of them, freedom and self-government, were related but distinct principles for which American patriots were willing to combat a world-spanning empire.

"My first wish is for America to be free," said John Penn, one of North Carolina's three signers of the Declaration. Like many other North Carolinians of the 1770s, Penn was a native Virginian who had headed south in pursuit of freedom (North Carolina was comparatively lax in enforcing conformity and collecting taxes) as well as greater economic opportunity (land was cheaper).

A particular incident seems to have motivated his move. Penn, a lawyer, had been complaining publicly about Parliament taxing the colonies without their consent – that is, without having their own elected representatives in the body. According to family lore, someone reported Penn to the local authorities. He was charged and convicted of making disrespectful remarks about the king. A Virginia judge ordered him to pay a nominal fine of one penny. Penn refused. Other members of his family had already moved to what is now Vance County, North Carolina. He joined them.

Can you spot both principles in question here? Penn was speaking in favor of self-government, that people living in a community ought to enjoy the civil right to help select those who populate and run its governmental institutions. But his personal freedom to express that view was a natural right, one that the civil authority had violated.

These ideas may have been expressed eloquently in English, but they had far older roots. The Greek philosopher Aristotle, for example, distinguished between two conceptions of liberty: a civic one that was "for all to rule and be ruled in turn" and a personal one, "that a man should live as he likes."

Both sets of rights were and are important. And, of course, neither has been consistently defended and advanced, including here in America. At the time of the Founding, most Americans couldn't vote. And colonial governments imposed a range of restrictions on the freedom of Americans, including the moral outrage of slavery.

But to observe that the Americans whose representatives gathered in Philadelphia in 1776 were inconsistent in their commitments to freedom and self-government is not to deny the significance of what transpired that summer. There are worse sins than shortsightedness or even hypocrisy, including having no principles at all. As Martin Luther King would later put it so memorably, the Founders had essentially written a "promissory note," whether they realized it or not, to future generations. Fulfilling that obligation is an on-going project.

While not foreseeing all the consequences, the signers of the Declaration of Independence knew they were making history. Another North Carolina participant, William Hooper, celebrated "the important share which the colonies must soon have in regulating the political balance" by adopting a "constitution purged of [the] impurities" of English government and informed by "an experience of its defects."

Our dual experiment in freedom and self-government continues. Human nature prohibits perfection. What makes America special, and worth celebrating, is the audacity of our aspiration.

John Hood (@JohnHoodNC) is chairman of the John Locke Foundation and appears on "NC SPIN," broadcast statewide Fridays at 7:30p and Sundays at 12:30p on UNC-TV.

A Tribute to our Fallen Colleagues

There is a bond that all newspaper people share. We all are committed to publishing useful information, especially in small communities where people care about each other and work together to make their towns safe and comfortable places to live.

That is the reason why we at The Pamlico News mourn the loss of five special people who lost their lives last Thursday at The Capital Gazette in Annapolis, MD.

As a tribute to these five people who shared our profession, we offer these words of eulogy:

Rebecca Smith was a sales assistant at The Capital Gazette. She was a recent hire, but had already proven herself as a newsroom asset. She described herself on her Facebook page as "Dog Mom. Softball Fiancé. Bonus Mom to the best kid ever."

Wendi Winters as the special publications editor, was "the heart of the newspaper," passionate about serving the community and a role model for younger journalists.

Gerald Fischman was the conscience and voice of the Annapolis news organization, writing insightful and always exacting editorials about the community for more than 25 years.

John McNamara was remembered by his colleagues for his flexibility, concise writing and extensive knowledge of regional sports, as he worked for the paper for 24 years.

Rob Hiaasen's wryly observant writing style and his generous mentoring of young journalists assured him of roles in several newsrooms, including The Capital Gazette. The Associated Press said that his family "was devastated beyond words" by the senseless killing of this talented and dedicated man.

We as part of the newspaper family are also devastated by this horrible tragedy..

Pamlico

Happy Independence Day or Fourth of July to everyone; the 28th Croaker Festival has come and gone and I hope you enjoyed some of the festivities. I enjoyed singing with the Pamlico Chorale at the opening ceremony, listening to some fine music from the U Hoos, the Community Band, and Ken Belangia, as well as watching the beautiful young ladies in the pageants Friday evening. All contestants represented their sponsors proudly as they graced the stage. Little Summer Daniels got everyone on their feet when she sang the National Anthem, and Grace Maelyn Smith gave a testimony that blessed everyone. Grace used to live in Pamlico and is the granddaughter of Joan Ford of Pamlico. I still miss the Oriental United Methodist Men frying up croakers for lunch, but this year a group from Jones County had a croaker basket for sale that was delicious and had enough in it to share.

The camps were well represented in Saturday's parade. My sister, Mildred and her husband were in the parade passing out candy from the Trump Truck. Mildred was one of the founding members of the Croaker Festival. Greg Jones from Pamlico rode his white Honda trike in the parade.

We were also blessed on Friday when Jerry and Nancy Harper paid for our lunch at Brantley's Village Restaurant much to our surprise and delight. Roy says Jerry was a slick one to slip our bill off the table without him noticing it.

Joannis came home for the weekend and surprised her dad with a belated Father's Day present of petrified wood that she had gotten on her trip to Arizona. She came home to help me put up some corn, but she did not have to help much, especially since she did it all for me last year when we were in Alaska.

Those celebrating birthdays in July include Nancy Harper (7/3), Floyd Peed (7/10), Tal Hudgins (7/13), Charles Stackhouse (7/15), Annette Jones (7/17), Betty Lou Burnett Bishop (7/20), Joanne Gwaltney Ashton (7/22), Carlton Muse and Gladys Wright (7/26) and Bertha Gilliam (7/31). Celebrating their anniversaries in July are Mildred and Bill Harrison (7/17) and Cathy and Brent Fulcher (7/24).

Have a blessed week. Tired? Take Spiritual Vitamin T. "But they that wait upon the LORD shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint." (Isaiah 40:31)

Whortonsville

This is a very sad time for the residents of Whortonsville. In the last two weeks, three residents have passed away, two unexpectedly and one after a long sickness. On Thursday evening, Nick Santoro died at Vidant Hospital after fighting a long battle with cancer. Nick was one of the people who made Whortonsville such a wonderful place to live. He founded the Summer Solstice races in June of 1990 sponsored by the Whortonsville Yacht and Tractor Club. For 20 years, many folks raced and came together for a barbecue and covered dish dinner in the evening. Nick also wrote a book called "The Whortonsville Yacht and Tractor Club" that keeps you guessing as to how much is fact and how much is fiction. He also headed up the games for our July Fourth celebrations that we held in the past. Nick started a realty company shortly after coming here. He and Jeanette were dear friends to Weeks and me and spent many nights eating and

Aurora

The big news here was that Channel 9 came out to see us and do a story on Aurora on 6/26. I met with morning anchor, Maria Satira along with Aurora citizens Joy Dunne, her cousin, Denise Bonner and Director of Aurora's Parks and Recreation Kaneka Moore for a segment on the revitalization of the Community Garden and new Ball Field. The story will air on 7/17. Satira and her cameraman and editor Kenneth Roundtree were very enjoyable to be around and they spent some really good quality time learning about us and our love for Aurora.

The Buddleia (Butterfly Bush) is really starting to attract mostly Tiger Swallowtails. Once in a while I see a hummingbird also check it out. For the first time I think I'm hearing katydids over at the woods on the point. They were plentiful in the mountains where I like to go.

playing cards together. They have one daughter Alyce, and she is inviting all of Nick's friends to attend a celebration of his life in their yard this Sunday from 3-5p.m. On Sunday when I played for the community church service in Oriental, many folks were asking about Nick. He was also instrumental in getting our roads paved here and I really appreciated that, because I had to travel to Oriental every Monday night on bumpy dirt roads. He also served as a County Commissioner. We also have two families moving away, so the makeup of our community is really changing. Kevin, Suzy, Weeks and I are the longest residents on Old Lupton Road. The Croakerfest was very successful in spite of the heat. In case you did not see the booth that was selling mosquito spray that has no chemicals, multipurpose cleaner, and bath balm, she has a web site called World of One. Both products work well, because I have tested them. Thought for the week--Please remember the four letter word that makes for a better world--LOVE!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Wilson Pageant, an official preliminary pageant to Miss North Carolina and Miss America. Teresa went back to school as a single mom in her thirties to earn her degree in Environmental Science. With her degree in hand she went to work for the North Carolina Division of Water Quality on the Neuse River Rapid Response Team. She loved her career and she loved working on the waters of Eastern North Carolina. In 2008 she reconnected with her high school sweetheart, and in 2010 she finally became Teresa Morris.

Teresa was a kind and generous person, always seeing the best in others and encouraging those around her to reach for the best within themselves. She loved to sing and will be remembered for her beautiful voice. Teresa was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Teresa is survived by the love of her life, her husband Stephen Morris, her daughter Victoria Hardison, her parents Annie Wiggins Flowers (and husband, Doug Flowers) and Graydon Lupton (and wife, Pat Lupton), her sister Linda Williams Morning (and husband, Curt Morning), her nephews Steven Lupton, RJ Lupton, Troy Swindell, Jr. and niece, Amber Taylor. She is predeceased by her brothers, Grady Lupton and Robert Lupton.

A memorial service to celebrate her life will be held Thursday, July 5th, 2018 at 7:00 PM at Arapahoe Free Will Baptist Church, 7970 NC Hwy. 306, Arapahoe, NC. Arrangements made by Bryant Funeral Home, Alliance, NC.

On June 29, 2018, with loving family by his side, Nicholas John Santoro succumbed to cancer after a valiant three-year effort to overcome it.

Nick was born in Manhattan, NY on February 15, 1942 to Annarosa and Nicholas Paul Santoro. Shortly thereafter his family moved to Tenafly, NJ where he was raised. Nick graduated from American University in 1965 with a degree in eastern religion and philosophy. After applying his interests in psychology and economics to a short career as a stockbroker during the flagging market of the early 1970s, he felt compelled to find a more secure way to support his wife and daughter (one word: plastics). Rather than reside in the city where his job was located, Nick and Jeannette chose to live where they could sail, garden, and otherwise enjoy the outdoors while raising their only child. For twenty years they lived in a log cabin in the woods of northern New Jersey on Greenwood Lake – near the last stop on the New Jersey Transit Bus line. Nick's commute was grueling, an hour and a half ride that could take more than twice that in the snow or traffic. In 1982 he survived a PATH train fire under the Hudson River that would change his fate. The Tuesday March 16 headline in the NY Post read, "HUNDREDS FELLED BY PATH BLAZE". The harrowing experience strengthened his resolve to find an alternative path forward.

With a vision of making a living based on their love of sailing, Nick and Jeannette traded their home in the northeast for a plot of land on the "inner banks" of coastal North Carolina. Over the course of several years they built their dream of owning and running a small sailboat marina in Whortonsville, a rural community (sometimes referred to as more of a state of mind than a fixed geographical location) near the Intracoastal Waterway and the town of Oriental known as "The Sailing Capital of NC". Shortly after moving to Whortonsville, Nick and Jeannette established the Whortonsville Yacht and Tractor Club – a loose organization designed to accommodate everyone regardless of yacht or tractor ownership. From 1990 until 2009 the Santoros hosted the locally renowned WYTC Summer Solstice Sailebration, an annual pursuit race employing an elaborately-crafted handicapping system to ensure that boats of any class or size would have the same odds of winning. Prizes included the perpetual Whortonsville Cup (a coffee cup-shaped cookie jar filled with homemade cookies) and loaves of Miss Reba's freshly baked bread. The last-place boat was awarded an overgrown zucchini. Fun was had by all.

In 2016 Nick published a book named for the Whortonsville Yacht and Tractor Club containing a slightly fictionalized account of his transformation from harried New York City commuter to proprietor of Ensign Harbor and the commodore of the WYTC. Copies are available at the Inland Waterway Provision Company in Oriental, with all proceeds going to benefit local causes.

Not many have the good fortune to realize their dreams. Nick, in partnership with his beloved wife of nearly 50 years (Sadly Jeannette was taken by the same disease in September of 2017), most certainly did. He often remarked that he and Jeannette had found a small slice of heaven on earth in Whortonsville and on the Pamlico Sound.

Nick served on the Pamlico County Planning Board for 23 years. He enjoyed playing tennis with a local group of friends. He will be remembered for his gregarious nature, his wit, his love of music, and his generous spirit. He will be missed by the many friends and family who knew and loved him, most of all by his daughter who rarely beat him at chess but who occasionally beat him in Sunfish match racing.

Nick is survived by his beloved daughter Alyce Santoro and husband Julian Mock; sister Mary Pitts and brother-in-law Dr. Lawrence Pitts; niece Jennifer Pitts and husband Sankar Muthu and their children Lucia and Nicholas; nephew John Pitts; brother-in-law Ralph Larsen and sister-in-law Josephine Larsen; nephew Myles Larsen and wife Heather and their children Grant and Masten; nephew Paul Larsen; niece Caroline Larsen Simpson and her husband Jesse and their children Alyssa, Owen, Juliana, and Theadora; and many much-loved friends and neighbors.

A celebration of Nick's life will take place at Ensign Harbor in Whortonsville from 3 to 5pm on Sunday July 8. Light refreshments will be served.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made in Nick's name to Heartworks (heartworksnc.org), a nonprofit agency that provides guidance and services to local families and children in need.

A Tradition in Pamlico County
Mayo's Seafood Restaurant

Shirley Mayo, whose name for decades was associated with fresh, local seafood. So, when her daughter Shirley took over the business, she was already a local celebrity. Though "Big Shirley" as she was affectionately called is now gone to her Maker, there is a tangible sense of her spirit at the neat, comfortable restaurant at 13533 NC Highway 55 in Alliance, that she left to "Little Shirley."

As soon as I walked in the door, my attention was drawn to a group of people thoroughly enjoying conversation and laughter. Carla, my waitress immediately came over with a smile and a friendly word, and Leah, her partner in the dining room was equally welcoming. There is such a variety of seafood (local and fresh) on the menu that it can satisfy any craving. I finally settled on chowder (Carla explained that it was down east chowder made with a broth base) and a fried catfish fillet sandwich. Carla even asked if I wanted a lemon with my water, which I don't, but most restaurants just bring it anyway.

I love that they offer catfish, because as a child, I visited Reelfoot Lake in Kentucky to enjoy catfish and hushpuppies with my family. You can also imagine how thrilled I was to receive a basket of hushpuppies to enjoy while I was waiting.

I guess I'll always be part New England girl, because I much prefer the cream-based chowder over the down east version, but the cup con-

People in these parts know that the owner of Mayo's Seafood Restaurant, Shirley Ireland, is the daughter of the original tained lots of goodies, so I ate every drop. The catfish sandwich was dressed with tomato and lettuce to my specifications, and not only was it perfectly cooked and totally tasty, but no bones! (The Reelfoot Lake version required that I pick out the bones.)

Despite the size of the sandwich and my satisfied tummy, I was tempted by the large case of desserts, especially key lime pie. When you go, order a dessert for me, would you?

You can only imagine my complete delight when I asked for a box for a few left-over hushpuppies and Carla included a few more for me to take home. Not only is this eatery friendly and inviting, but the prices are reasonable.

Here's a sampling of other offerings:

Leah and Carla, your friendly servers at Mayo's

Appetizers like calamari, bacon cheddar fries and chips, crab dip, shrimp cocktail, and fried pickles. Salads include cranberry walnut, a popular chicken salad cold plate, chef, shrimp, and southwest chicken. A nice selection of wraps, a What-a-burger (I'll probably have to return to see exactly what that is), Philly steak burger, shrimp, trout, flounder, crab cake, and soft crab sandwiches. (Local soft crabs are in season now.) Dinners of shrimp, oyster, flounder, catfish, and clam strips, including a two- or three-selection combo. Surf and turf, pork chop, chicken, barbeque and hamburger steak.

There's a kids' menu and 21 side dishes from which to select, including a cucumber salad that was ordered several times just during my visit. Beer and wine round out the ample menu offerings.

Hours are Monday through Thursday 11-8; Friday and Saturday 11-8:30; and they're closed Sunday. When you go, tell "Little Shirley" I said "hello." It's always a pleasure to be in the presence of local royalty.
